KNUDSEN STAND FORCED ON HIM, HIS FRIENDS SAY

Find War Aims Talk Dictated by Aids.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—The statement concerning this government's attitude toward the European war, issued yesterday in the name of William S. Knudsen, director of the new office for defense production management, has raised fundamental questions which will be the subject of prolonged debate when congress meets in January.

Investigation today disclosed that the statement was the work of Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war, and Col. Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, and that it was approved by President Roosevelt.

Stimson and Knox, both members of the new supercouncil of national defense, are known to be the most bellicose interventionists in President Roosevelt's cabinet, with the possible exception of Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury.

Imposed Upon, Say Friends.

Friends of Knudsen, the industrial production expert who gave up the presidency of the General Motors corporation to help direct the government's armament program, said he was imposed upon by Stimson and Knox when he issued yesterday's momentous statement on foreign policy. The statement was drafted in the office of Secretary Stimson and subscribed to, it was announced, by all four members of the newly designated office of production management, including Sidney Hillman, the labor member.

The statement asserted bluntly that the present contest in Europe "is irreconcilable in character and cannot be terminated by any methods of appeasement." In the vocabularies of Secretaries Stimson and Knox, the term "appeasement" means anything short of destroying Hitlerism and subjugating Germany. Hence yesterday's statement, in the view of informed quarters here, amounted to an ultimatum to the world that the United States will not tolerate any negotiated peace beween Great Britain and Germany.

Press for Negotiated Peace.

This is the professed attitude of the Churchill government of England. However, many British business men, including some connected with the purchasing commission in the United States, believe that a negotiated peace preserving the British empire intact—while recognizing Germany's domination of Europe west of Russia—would be better than a destructive war to the finish from which only communism might benefit. Pope Pius XII. also is understood to be seeking the basis for a negotiated peace.

Already the Stimson-Knox-Knudsen statement is being compared by Washington observers with the House-Grey memorandum of 1916. That memorandum, signed by Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, and Col. E. M. House, President Wilson's personal emissary to Europe, committed the United States to intervene in the war on the side of the allies if the central powers should refuse President Wilson's proposal for peace on predetermined terms favorable to the allies. President Wilson, approving the memorandum, qualified it by inserting the word "probably" in the statement that the United States would enter the war.

View United States as Committed.

According to noninterventionists in congress, the statement issued yesterday commits the United States to the support of Great Britain until Germany is defeated, whatever assistance in terms of munitions, money, ships and men may be required.

The significance of the statement was enhanced, in the opinion of these observers, by its timing. It was released a few hours after the official spokesman of the Berlin foreign office had warned the United States not to continue a policy of "pinpricks, injury, challenge, and moral aggression" against Germany by requisitioning foreign shipping in American ports for the use of Great Britain. It followed within four days President Roosevelt's proposal to purchase unlimited quantities of armament and other war supplies and lend them to the British under an agreement for repayment in kind after the war.

According to preliminary indications, questions raised by the Knud-

Dog Runs for Aid, Saving Boy, 2, from Drowning

After Sonny had wandered off his father's farm and fallen into a gravel pit, the frantic barking of Spotty brought aid from Glenn Petersen, the boy's father and neighbors. The child was pulled from four feet of water, unconscious, but was revived by artificial respiration.

OPEN NATIONAL DRIVE TO KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR

Group Prints Aims in 50 Newspapers.

New York, Dec. 22 [Special].—Launching of a nation-wide campaign to prevent the United States being drawn into any foreign war, and to countervene the prowar propaganda of powerfully organized groups already active in the nation, was announced here tonight by Verne Marshall, chairman of the recently formed "No Foreign War committee."

The aims of the Marshall committee are directly opposed to those of the interventionist Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, headed by William Allen White, editor of the Emporia [Kas.] Gazette.

Outlining the program of his committee, Marshall announced that the "no war" crusade would be dramatically projected across the nation in newspaper advertisments. These advertisments will appear in 50 newspapers from coast to coast tomorrow.

Asks National Support.

The advertisments, Marshall continued, stress the urgent need for national support in the committee's mobilization "in its last ditch fight to defeat interventionists who would drag the greatest nation of them all down to the wreckage which inevitably follows total war."

The advertisments cost $41,000, Marshall declared. This initial expense, he added, is being borne by the Cedar Rapids [Iowa] Gazette, of which he is editor and co-publisher. The need for additional funds is obvious, he said.

Depicting a battlefield strewn with dead, the advertisment in appealing for contributions, states the "No War committee" cannot much longer carry on, unaided, "against the resources supporting the William Allen White committee."

"Unnecessary delay in our receipt of adequate funds," it states, "for this campaign to preserve the America we love easily might cause the loss of this battle" against war propaganda.

Deluged with Propaganda.

"Again, as in the last war," Marshall said, "we are being deluged with propaganda. William Allen White has been sold down the river by those who at first may have intended only to arouse American public opinion to the manifest threats to democracy involved in the war. This is done even tho the economic factors directly responsible for the war never are mentioned by those who seek to take us into the war or to persuade our government to violate the Johnson act and the neutrality act.

"Any citizen who undertook to violate these laws would be subject to heavy fines or imprisonment," Marshall said. "But now we see the President of the United States taking sole authority for the granting of 3 billion dollars in credits to England with which to purchase the materials of war in defiance of the neutrality and Johnson acts."

Defends Col. Lindbergh.

In reference to the work of the America First committee and its chairman, Gen. Robert E. Wood of Chicago, Marshall characterized Gen. Wood as "an able and courageous leader," and added that the two organizations will be fighting for the same goal, "Our peace—without infringement on the honor, security, and integrity of the United States."

Alluding to criticisms of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, foe of hysterical war intervention clamor, Marshall asserted Col. Lindbergh "has been as cruelly treated as it is possible to treat any man who has contributed so greatly to the world."

LOOP HEADQUARTERS PLANNED.

Permanent loop headquarters for the Chicago chapter of the America First committee will be chosen this week as the first step of a campaign to acquaint residents of the Chicago area with its plan to crystalize public sentiment in the fight to keep America out of the European war. Present offices are in the Board of Trade building.

Civic, patriotic, and women's clubs whose members indorse the group's work will be given representation on its general committee, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chairman, said.

The organization urges an impregnable defense, but believes that national safety is weakened by more than "cash and carry" aid to Great Britain.

Chicago Bound Streamliner Jumps Track

The Chicago bound City of Los Angeles, crack streamliner of the Chicago and North Western railroad, left the tracks last night about four miles west of Julesburg, Colo., on the Colorado-Nebraska border. Several passengers were reported injured. The accident happened at 11:30 p. m. Chicago time.

News of the wreck was telephoned to The Tribune by George D. Cross, 1640 East 50th street, Chicago. Cross, a student at Leland Stanford university, was returning for Christmas.

Sleepers Are Derailed.

"We were traveling along," Cross said, "when suddenly there was a jolt and the car I was in was thrown at an angle. When it stopped jolting I got out and walked along the track. The engine and first car were not derailed, but 12 other cars, including four or five sleepers, were. One of the cars was overturned and lay at right angles to the track. I could hear people screaming inside.

"Someone gave me a sledge hammer and I broke a window and helped about six persons out. One of them, a woman, was injured. Another woman told me that she was thrown from her berth to the floor, but that a baby sleeping with her was undisturbed."

Names of the injured, said by Cross to number about seven persons, could not be learned immediately. Cross said one of them was a porter, and road officials in Chicago said at least three were crewmen. Cross said none was seriously hurt.

The wreck, Cross reported, apparently was caused either by a broken rail or by a coupling which broke between the first and second cars behind the engine. Passengers crowded out of the derailed cars and built bonfires along the track.

Brought in by Ambulance.

The injured were brought to Julesburg by ambulance. About 175 passengers were reported aboard, including Ensign R. C. Gillette of the U. S. S. Lexington, bound for Evanston to spend Christmas with his family. His father is Capt. N. C. Gillette, in charge of the naval R.O.T.C. unit at Northwestern. Ensign Gillette wired his sister, Mary Lou, that he was unhurt.

The City of Los Angeles, which makes the Los Angeles-Chicago run in less than 40 hours, was due in Chicago at 12:15 p. m. today.

Officials of the road said they thought it probable the streamliner's passengers would arrive in Chicago on some other train this evening.

BRITISH FEAR SPREAD OF STRIKE OVER TAILOR WHO WORKS TOO FAST

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—An unofficial strike at a factory making uniforms for British soldiers, caused by one tailor's cutter who worked too fast, may assume "serious proportions," the British Press association reported tonight.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 workers were expected to be idle tomorrow and the only man scheduled to work is the cause of it all, Albert Lazenby.

The factory will be picketed tomorrow and a strike committee will inform the management that the walkout will continue unless Lazenby "is withdrawn."

The National Union of Tailors and Garment Workers expelled Lazenby because, it said, he violated union rules by cutting too many pairs of khaki pants an hour.

WOMAN SCOOTER FAN, 63, HITS CAR; FRACTURES WRIST

(Picture on Page 2.)

Nicholas Romanelli, 20 years old, 4941 Federal street, turned into 93d street last night from South Park avenue and stopped his car. A moment later there was a thud. Nicholas got out and found a gasoline scooter on the pavement, its rider sprawled beside it. He helped the victim to her feet and found she was Mrs. Paula Teutsch, 63, of 429 East 91st street, a widowed seamstress.

Mrs. Teutsch told police, after her broken left wrist had been attended, that she had been scooting for three years. Her present machine, for which she paid $45 two years ago, is her second. She said she uses the scooter for both business and pleasure and that she was joy riding last night when Romanelli stopped in front of her and she rammed his car.

SEIZE GAMBLERS PLAYING POKER WITH $1,000 CHIPS

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Five men were arrested and 25 surprised patrons in evening clothes were questioned by police today after a predawn gambling raid on an establishment off fashionable Fifth avenue.

A burglar alarm jangled as a plainclothes policeman smashed a glass door panel to gain entrance into the building, a richly furnished five story stone residence in East 68th street. Patrons bolted for exits but were stopped by detectives.

Inspector George W. Heitzmann said that stacks of poker chips selling at $5 to $1,000 each were taken in the raid. After questioning, the police released all but five employés.

Halifax Named British Envoy to Washington

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Viscount Halifax, secretary of state for foreign affairs in both the Chamberlain and Churchill cabinets, will be the next British ambassador to the United States in succession to the late Lord Lothian, according to an official statement issued tonight. This appointment had been generally expected. Anthony Eden, secretary of war, will succeed Lord Halifax as foreign minister, while Capt. David Margesson, chief whip for the government in the house of commons since 1931, will take Eden's place in the war office, it was announced.

Viscount Halifax.

Eden Returns to Old Job.

Lord Halifax, who is 59 years old, has been foreign minister since February, 1938, and during recent months also was leader of the house of lords. From 1926 to 1931 he was viceroy of India.

Eden, who is 43 years old, occupied the post of foreign secretary from December, 1935, until 1938, when he resigned as a result of his disagreement with Neville Chamberlain's policy of trying to reach an arrangement with Italy.

Capt. Margesson, 50 years old, is said to have been conspicuously successful as the government's chief whip in commons. In that difficult position he kept the Conservative members of the government in line and created a reputation which was considered dangerous to oppose.

Reports are current that further cabinet changes may follow, the most interesting of which may be the inclusion of the world war prime minister, David Lloyd George, in a non-departmental capacity.

Choice Pleases U. S. Officials.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The appointment of Viscount Halifax as the new British ambassador to the United States was warmly received in administration circles tonight. Authorized spokesmen said that Lord Halifax was eminently satisfactory as successor to the late marquess of Lothian.

Italy Shoots 2 Spies; Puts 22 More in Prison

ROME, Dec. 22 (AP).—Discovery of a "network of informers" was revealed today when Aurelio Sudo, described as a traveling salesman of Taranto, and Francesco Ghezzi, a navy officer, were executed as spies at Fort Bravetta, near Rome.

The executions were carried out at dawn with military dispatch. The firing squad was back in barracks before there was even an official announcement of the trial.

The announcement disclosed that 25 other persons also had stood trial as "members of a network of informers which acted in our country in the interest of a foreign power," and that only three were acquitted because of insufficient evidence. Twenty-two received prison terms.

Naval Espionage Indicated.

The case was the first spy incident to come to public notice since Italy entered the war a little over six months ago.

The trial ended last night, a few hours before Sudo and Ghezzi were marched out of their cells to their death.

The nature of the espionage activities was not disclosed. Something relating to the navy, however, was suggested in the occupations of those involved.

Some observers believed the case might have related to the British air raid on the Taranto naval base on Nov. 11, when three Italian battleships were torpedoed and damaged.

One a Taranto Resident.

Sudo lived in Taranto at least part of the time and Ghezzi was a navy quartermaster.

Oswado Basevi, another quartermaster, and Guisto Antonio Gubitta, an employé of a naval construction firm, and the latter's wife, Clara Machetto Gubitta, were condemned to life imprisonment.

"Margherita Gross, of Austrian origin," said the official announcement, "and Adolpho Dedominica are sentenced to 30 years imprisonment, and Antonio Merlini to 27 years.

"Lesser sentences, varying from 3 to 10 years, were imposed on 16 other prisoners."

CHARGES LINER EMPLOYE TRIED TO POISON HIM

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 22 (AP).—An attempt was made to kill Charles M. Miller of Oakland City, Ind., on the liner President Harrison while the ship was en route here from Honolulu, T. H., Manila police said today. Miller gave the police a piece of pie he said had been given him by a ship's employé against whom he had complained to Capt. Duncan Ward. Police said the pie contained poison. The evidence was turned over to the captain for presentation to federal officers in the first American port the ship reaches. The alleged offense took place outside territorial waters, the captain said.

IRISH INTERN 4 BRITISH AIRMEN FROM 2 PLANES

DUBLIN, Ireland, Dec. 22 (AP).—Four British airmen—two of three who bailed out of a plane that later crashed and two occupants of a training plane which made a forced landing—have been interned by Irish authorities, it was announced officially today. The third man from the plane which crashed was found this morning after an all-night search. He was suffering from exposure and was given medical attention. Both incidents happened about the same time. The forced landing was made near Dundalk on the east coast, just within the border.

GRAZIANI LAYS EGYPT ROUT TO LACK OF TANKS

Hails His Troops in Report to Rome.

ROME, Dec. 22 (AP). — Marshal Rodolfo Graziani today blamed Italian reversals in Egypt and Libya on the lack of armored cars, tanks, and other mechanized equipment which prevented the Fascists from taking the offensive before the British got started. The Italians also were outnumbered, said the marshal in a report to Premier Mussolini. The mechanized equipment which Graziani said he had ordered from home, but which failed to arrive in time, was to have led an attack aimed at the Suez canal and the Nile river in Egypt. Mussolini himself had ordered the offensive.

Marshal Graziani.

[The British have maintained a blockade of the Italian lines of communication across the Mediterranean since the African campaign began.]

Graziani's report was his first explanation of the success of the British campaign which started two weeks ago and backed the Italians westward out of Egypt into Libya. He told Mussolini it would "certainly be premature to forecast developments in the titanic fight" in Libya in which the British "have concentrated the best troops of four continents."

Praises Italian Resistance.

If the number of prisoners taken by the British is high, Graziani told the Duce, it is because the Italians held out "to the last spasm," and Mussolini "must not doubt their bravery."

The report detailed the preparations for the Italian offensive. To supply water in the occupied zone in Egypt, the marshal said, his troops built 72 miles of pipeline and road from Fort Capuzzo on the Libyan frontier to Sidi Barrani. The pipeline, he said, carried about a gallon of water to Sidi Barrani each second. Some of the Italian units, he declared, marched hundreds of miles on foot, to economize on transport facilities.

By the first day of December all the Italians lacked for the offensive was the tanks and mechanized equipment they had ordered from home. The fact that the British were preparing for their own offensive was not unknown, Graziani said, and all guards were ordered strengthened against an attack which, when it came, was "murderous" in intensity, according to the marshal.

Form Another Line.

Graziani said that after the first defeat, another line was formed between Sollum, Egypt, and Fort Capuzzo, and the main forces of the Italian troops withdrew to that point, necessarily sacrificing little units as they retired. He emphasized the support given the British ground forces by the fleet and air force.

"Against the key points occupied by our troops on the desert country, flat, easily looked over, and devoid of any tactical possibilities, the enemy had an easy time of pooling masses of armored equipment, medium and heavy tanks, aided by fast moving batteries and effective assistance of the air force," Graziani said.

"Short preparation generally was entrusted to artillery and aviation. A murderous air bombardment had hardly ceased when armored forces rushed from all directions against our troops and thus, despite the most strenuous resistance, the key points, in a few hours, were submerged one by one.

Begin "Orderly" Withdrawal.

"The first to be invested was the Maletti grouping which began an orderly withdrawal until, overcome, it trailed a second Libyan division which had sent a strong motorized column to its aid. Against an armored mass operating on a wide front, the antitank guns and artillery of our divisions, forced to scatter their fire on many fast moving targets headed decisively for their objective, could have little effect.

"The essential reason for the first lightning success gained by the enemy must therefore be sought in the

NAZI BOMBERS RAID LIVERPOOL FOR THIRD NIGHT

British Flyers Make Dawn Attack on Germany.

LONDON, Dec. 23, Monday (AP).—German bombers battered Liverpool heavily last night and early today and bombed other northwestern towns in a series of raids that reached into nearly every section of England and the capital. It was the third consecutive night attack on Liverpool.

Nazi raiders attacked London shortly after nightfall. An "all clear" was given about an hour after midnight, but two hours later the second alarm of the night was sounded.

Other raiders were reported over western Scotland, northern England, East Anglia and the Midlands. The British had a virtual rest during Sunday's daylight hours. Saturday night the Germans had directed their heaviest attacks on Liverpool and the important Merseyside area around that port.

Two Nazi bombers were reported destroyed.

Rare Attack in Daylight.

After showing its strength with a record night assault on axis objectives from Norway to the Adriatic, the R. A. F. was reported Sunday to have carried out rare daybreak bombardments of German naval bases at Wilhelmshaven, Germany, and Brest and Lorient, France, paying particular attention to the docks.

"During Saturday night other aircraft bombed the Oslo-Bergen railway in Norway. The line, which is used by the enemy for carrying supplies to the port of Bergen, was hit at several points. One of our aircraft is missing," the air ministry reported.

The other night assaults on the continent included a 1,600 mile round trip to Venice, near where, the ministry said, fires were started in a petroleum refinery at Porto Marghera and "extremely heavy" bombs fell on docks and factory buildings.

British bombs also were dropped out of the night on German oil plants in the Ruhr valley, factories, inland docks, railways and airdromes, military stores at Cologne, and docks and harbor works used by Germany in Belgium and the Netherlands.

The British reported hits on a synthetic oil plant at Gelsenkirchen, another at Wesseling and hangars at Mulheim. Mannheim also was bombed.

Say Fiume Was Raided.

ROME, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Italian high command stated today that the British "dropped some bombs on the city of Fiume" last night, hitting a private home and injuring six persons. [The high command made no mention of an attack on Porto Marghera.]

Damage Jugo-Slav Town.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 22 (AP).—Jugo-Slavia will demand compensation from the British government for injuries and property damage caused by the bombing early today of Susak, Jugo-Slav town across the border from Fiume, Italy. Diplomatic action awaited the conclusion of an official inquiry. It was reported seven persons were wounded in Susak.

Aim Attack at Midlands.

BERLIN, Dec. 22 (AP).—Waves of German bombers took off tonight to attack "an important industrial town in the English Midlands," informed sources said.

GLORY OF GREECE RISES IN TRIUMPH AT RALLY OF 8,000

Drive for War Relief Funds Opened.

Eight thousand Chicagoans of Hellenic birth or descent gathered in the Coliseum yesterday to demonstrate that the glory that was Greece still lives.

To their massmeeting, sponsored by the Greek War Relief association to launch its drive for 10 million dollars in the United States, they brought the music, the pageantry, and the patriotism of both ancient and modern Greece.

The setting was a mingling of oriental and occidental brilliance. Two gigantic flags, the American flag and the blue and white emblem of Greece, formed a backdrop.

Priests Wear Rich Vestments.

Against this stood the entire Greek orthodox priesthood of Chicago, dressed in their magnificent Byzantine ecclesiastical vestments of embroidered gold and purple. Elsewhere thruout the hall were men, women, and children in Greek folk costumes.

The meeting opened with the intoning of an ancient Byzantine doxology, marking the first time it had been celebrated outside a church.

Then the 8,000 joined in the stirring "Te Epermaho," the high Byzantine hymn of appeal which the Greek peoples have sung since the year 613, when the patriarch of Constantinople, threatened by the Mohammedans, rallied the city's defenders with it.

Young and Old Join in Song.

Young and old alike, including wrinkled little Mrs. Georgia Tooley on the front row, now 82, who came to Chicago as Chicago's first Greek woman, joined in this and its fervent refrain, "Os litrothisa ton dinon etcharisteria" [Keep me free from all dangers].

The Rev. Daniel Golemis, archmandrite of the Chicago diocese, then arose to tell his people their kinsmen in Greece did not provoke the war in which they are engaged. "It came to them," he said proudly, "and they accepted it."

Resolutions were sent to Premier John Metaxas of Greece, Premier Winston Churchill of England, King George II. of Greece, and President Roosevelt. The first three were statements of faith and willingness to sacrifice to triumph. President Roosevelt was asked to direct aid to Greece.

Rob Clerk and 2 Women in North Side Hotel Lobby

Two men last night held up the Gordon Terrace hotel, 4157 Clarendon avenue, and forced Gerald Lopez, the manager, to surrender a cash box containing $75. They also took $5 each from Mrs. Helen Simon and Mrs. Beulah Stern, guests in the hotel, who were in the lobby at the time. John Ruchala, elevator boy, was ordered to take his car to the top floor and remain there. He stopped at the third, however, and phoned police.

British Keep Ban on Ringing Church Bells for Christmas

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The regulation forbidding the ringing of church bells for any other purpose than warning of invasion is so rigid that not even the archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the Church of England, has been able to have the ban lifted for Christmas day and other occasions. Recently the war office refused to grant the archbishop's request to permit the ringing of church bells on Christmas.

MICHIGAN AT RANDOLPH

GREEKS, SKIRTING CHIMARA, PRESS TOWARD VALONA

Great Battle Rages in Tepeleni Sector.

ATHENS, Dec. 22 (AP).—Greek troops were reported today to have skirted the well defended Adriatic coastal city of Chimara in Albania, leaving other units behind to clean out Italian opposition there.

The advance units pressed onward toward the strategic port of Valona about 30 miles farther north, and in fierce hand to hand fighting were said to have captured several hundred Italians on important heights bordering the sea. A government spokesman declared Chimara was under the "absolute control" of Greek artillery and that the Greek army was advancing "steadily and securely" at other points along the front.

[The British radio in a broadcast heard in New York quoted the Athens radio as claiming Chimara, Albania, had been captured by Greek troops. Five minutes before this broadcast the Rome radio declared Chimara still was held by the Italians.]

Big Battle Near Tepeleni.

Frontier dispatches said a "very large scale" battle was raging 20 miles northeast of Chimara in the Tepeleni-Klisura area. "Brilliant successes" were claimed by the Greeks in that sector, where units struggled northwestward to effect a junction with the Greek coastal units and to secure the collapse of all Fascist resistance in southern Albania.

One report said an entire Italian regiment had been decimated just outside Tepeleni in one of the greatest victories since Greek troops routed the Italians from Greece and began their own counterinvasion. The Fascist regiment there, the report said, had put up a terrific fight for several days before crumbling.

Another report telling of the capture of important heights in the same area said two Italian battalions were surrounded.

Take 2,000 Prisoners.

The Greeks claim to have taken 2,000 prisoners in the last seven days. The Italians now are relying heavily on their airplanes in an effort to halt the Greeks. The bombing of rearline towns and villages held by the Greeks and the machine gunning of Greek troops were increasing, these reports said.

More than 50 bombs were dropped on Premet in the central sector of the Albanian front and were said to have caused heavy casualties and property damage.

Greek antiaircraft batteries shot down two Italian planes yesterday, the high command said, while a British air patrol was said to have destroyed two other Fascist planes.

Claim Big Guns Halt Greeks.

ROME, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Italian high command communique today claimed some success on the Greek front. There, it said, Italian artillery halted the Greeks who suffered "considerable losses" in a counterattack by the Italians.

In various air battles, the Italians said, 11 British planes were shot down in flames, while the Fascists lost four.

"During the night of Dec. 20 and all yesterday numerous formations of bombers and dive bombers effectively pounded troops, preparations, highways, railroad batteries and bases involved in operations under way in Albania," the communique said.

DE GAULLE-VICHY PLOT IN AFRICA SEEN BY ITALIANS

Fear French Will Unite to Save Colonies.

ROME, Dec. 22 (AP).—Belief that the Vichy government of France is plotting with Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of the "Free French" forces, to reunite French territories in Africa to resist "any eventual foreign intervention" was expressed today by the Italian magazine Rassegna Italiana.

The magazine said the combination of French African possessions under the De Gaulle flag with British African territories would form a "gigantic bloc" that could help defend the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan or take part in an offensive against Italian territories.

"We must be vigilant that this bloc does not spread and absorb other territories of still more vital importance," Rassegna Italiana said.

Situation "Rather Muddy."

Describing the situation in French Africa as "rather muddy," the magazine said:

"We don't know whether Gen. Weygand [Chief of State Petain's representative in Africa] really refused to return to France, ignoring Vichy's orders, but we are fairly well acquainted with what is happening in French West Africa, French Morocco, and districts in northern Africa at present controled by France."

[Gen. Maxime Weygand has made inspection trips to various French points in Africa and has been received ceremoniously at numerous places.]

"What do they mean by all these ceremonies, accompanied by vows of loyalty by sultans, beys, and other notables and crowned by unvarying assurances of governors, residents, and functionaries that France will never yield an inch of her overseas territories?

"What do they mean by all these missions coming and going between unoccupied France and the empire?

"Here, in our opinion, are what are perhaps the last threads being woven into a carefully planned plot. We should not be at all surprised to read tomorrow that the two parts into which the great French African empire is at present divided have joined a single flag—that of resistance to the last against any eventual foreign intervention."

Vichy Awaits Nazi Move.

VICHY, France, Dec. 22 (AP).—The French government waited tonight for word from Germany concerning the next step in discussions over the future course of collaboration.

Informed sources said that Otto Abetz, Adolf Hitler's representative in Paris, was believed to be conferring there with German military authorities and that no definite action could be expected for several days.

It was rumored that the new G. P. [Groupes de Protection], a kind of vigilante legion formed by Interior Minister Marcel Peyrouton to be Chief of State Philippe Petain's special guard, was being disbanded.

BOMBS DROPPED ON SWISS SOIL; 11 CIVILIANS HURT

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 23, Monday (AP).—Eleven persons in the Zurich region were injured last night by explosive and incendiary bombs dropped by "unidentified planes" which came from the north, the Swiss high command announced today.

Five of those casualties occurred at Hoengg, 5 miles northwest of Zurich, where a house in the factory district was demolished. Incendiary bombs falling near the Orion automobile works in suburban Zurich started a fire which soon was controlled.

One explosive bomb fell near the railway viaduct at Wipkingen, an industrial district, gashing a big crater in the ground, and severing a power line. The planes caused raid alarms in the Basel, Berne and Zurich areas. Raid alarms in these cities usually have been an indication that British planes were en route to or from raids in Italy.

Options Lifted

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 22 [Special].—Four young film actresses will get contracts for Christmas, it was revealed here today. The actresses' options have been lifted by their studio, Twentieth Century-Fox. They will be signed to long term contracts, and thus become Hollywood's gifts to the movie going public. They are Sheila Ryan of Hollywood, Lynn Bari of Roanoke, Va., Mary Beth Hughes of Alton, Ill., and Gene Tierney of New York.

GAYDA CAUTIONS U. S. ON SEIZURE OF AXIS SHIPPING

ROME, Dec. 22 (AP).—The possibility of "complications" with the Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis if the United States lets Britain seize belligerents' merchant ships refuged in American harbors was suggested today by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor who often reflects official opinion.

"It could not be imagined," Gayda wrote in the newspaper La Voce D'Italia, "that these more or less clandestine North American interventions in the war would continue in the long run without complications with reference to the three power pact of Berlin."

[The three power pact binds its signatories to a one-for-all and all-for-one war on any new belligerent entering either the war against them in Europe or in China. Gayda's comment was a sequel to these events of the last three days: In London, Ronald Cross, British minister of shipping, suggested Friday that German and Italian ships tied up in the harbors of neutral United States be assigned to the British. In Berlin Saturday an official spokesman of the German foreign office charged that Cross was "inciting America to commit a warlike act" against the axis. In Washington, D. C., congressional reaction indicated that any formal proposal for fulfilling Cross' suggestion would encounter stiff opposition.]

Altho Gayda's was the first Italian press reaction to Cross' suggestion, it was preceded yesterday by assertions in informed Italian political quarters that delivery of axis ships to Britain by the United States would be "unfriendly" and "unneutral."

BRITISH DISCLOSE SUBMARINE LOST; HAD CREW OF 40

Swordfish, of 640 Ton Class, Long Missing.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—The loss of the British submarine Swordfish was announced tonight by the admiralty, which said it was long overdue, and "must be considered lost."

The Swordfish, for which a 640 ton class of British submarines is named, was credited with having torpedoed and sunk a German torpedo boat off the French coast last October.

Submarines of its type usually carry a complement of 40 men.

The Swordfish cost about $1,000,000. In February, 1937, it struck bottom making a deep dive off Portland Bill and lost a piece of secret mechanism so important that divers went down to retrieve it.

U-Boat Attacks British Ship.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The 2,473 ton British freighter Sarastone radioed today it was being attacked by a submarine about 350 miles off the coast of Portugal.

The vessel flashed an "S S S"—signifying a submarine attack—at 9:11 a. m. [Chicago time] giving its position as latitude 41:48 north, longitude 15:14 west.

Claim Italians Active.

The Sarastone, owned by the S. and R. Steamship company, was operated out of Llanelly, Wales. The German radio said today Italian long-distance submarines, based in the Atlantic and operating as for north as the Arctic ocean, have sunk more than 100,000 tons of shipping, "including a Canadian destroyer and the British tanker British Fame, of 17,000 tons." [Lloyd's register of shipping lists the British Fame as an 8,406 ton ship.]

The broadcast heard here quoted the Italian newspaper Corriere della Sera as saying "dozens" of the submarines were operating in the Atlantic.

DEFENSE SOCIETY ASSAILS MUDDLE IN CAMP BUILDING

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The American Defense society today charged that housing facilities for the United States draft army are nearly 60 per cent behind schedule. Declaring the housing "deficiency" had arisen with 300,000 men inducted into the contemplated peacetime army of 1,400,000 a report by the society's army and navy committee warned that "time is running against us."

The report charged that "divided responsibilities, lack of adequate planning and failure to coördinate the efforts" toward preparedness were behind the housing "deficiency."

This situation, the report added, "also is confusing and delaying the production of guns, tanks, airplanes and all machinery of modern war. The army believes that industry and labor have failed. Labor believes that industry has been derelict. Industry has blamed both labor and the government.

". . . The real reason for existing delays and cross-purposes is, we repeat, the long lack of a central head with power to plan and direct each part of our national economy to an urgent goal."

Siamese Report Repulse of Attack by French

BANGKOK, Thailand, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Thai [Siamese] high command announced tonight that French regulars, including Moroccans, and guerrillas carried out an "intensive violation" of Thai territory last night and early today.

NEWLYWEDS TOLD OF 'RACIAL DUTY' TO NAZI STATE

New Drive Opened to Lift National Birth Rate.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—To encourage newlyweds in what is called their "racial duty" and to help increase the national birth rate, German registrars will distribute special cards to them in which racial admonitions are interspersed with congratulations.

Build for the Future.

The leader of the national association of the German family—its subtitle is "League for the furtherance of the fruitfulness of the biologically fit"—seeks to make it clear to the young couples that it is their duty to "build the eternal fortresses of defense against national debt."

"The mission of the German people in the Nazi state can only achieve fulfilment if the survival of the people from generation to generation is assured," it says.

"Family Is First Step."

"The family is the first step from 'the I and the you of the individual' to the 'we' of the community. The happiness of the young marriage finds its highest fulfilment in the happiness growing up within it and in the future of the German people.

"All racially and biologically favored Germans, when marrying, feel their responsibility to their people. It is the responsibility to see to it that their valuable racial inheritance is passed on to healthy children—it is to them that we extend our greetings."

Aircraft Workers Give Britain a $90,000 Bomber

Burbank, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Eighteen thousand employés of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation and the Vega Airplane company today presented the people of Great Britain a $90,000 Hudson bomber as a Christmas gift. Technically it was a gift to employés of the Fairey Aircraft company of England, but British Consul Eric A. Cleugh and Air Commodore J. C. Slessor, British air attaché at Washington, D. C., expressed their appreciation. Pilot Jimmie Mattern flew the ship to Palm Springs and will continue to Albuquerque, N. M., tomorow, planning to reach Montreal, Canada, Christmas day.

Blamed for Italian Rout

[Acme Photo.]

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani in reporting to Mussolini why the Italians had been driven from Egypt, said that armored cars of this type, the British Bren gun carrier, came from everywhere after a short bombardment and cut off Italian centers of resistance before the Italians had proper equipment for own attack.

GRAZIANI TELLS DUCE CAUSE OF AFRICAN DEFEAT

Gen. Pietro Maletti fell at the head of his Libyan battalions which were eliminated from the battle and the British "swept on to Sidi Barrani where the ironlike blackshirt division bombarded by sea and air, resisted gallantly for two days."

The first Libyan division which had attempted to reach Sidi Barrani from Maktila, where it was intensely bombarded by the British fleet, found the road barred by armored cars but held out a long time "altho knowing its doom was sealed," the report declared. Maktila is about 15 miles east of Sidi Barrani in Egypt.

Other Divisions Perilled.

The infiltrations of British troops on the Buqbuq road threatened to overthrow for a second time the divisions of Catanzaro and Cirene, too, Graziani reported.

"On the afternoon of Dec. 10, therefore, I ordered a retreat. This was carried out fairly regularly by the Cantanzaro division up to the heights of Tishidada, when the march was encircled and caught in the fire of armored cars and thrown into disorder. The sacrifice of some detachments which resisted until Dec. 12 permitted two-thirds of the division to reach our lines at Sollum."

Graziani's communication was made public as Italian artillery, combat planes and bombers, and at least one warship were fighting a hard defensive battle against the invading British forces in Libya.

The warship, described in a high command communique only as "one of our naval units," bombarded British motorized groups near the Mediterranean coast, the communique said.

British Press Siege of Bardia.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 23 Monday (AP).—Britain's hard hitting air force continued to pound 20,000 Italians besieged at Bardia, Libya, and to range far west against Marshal Graziani's stronger defenses at Benghazi and Berka, frontier reports reaching here said early today.

WILD SHELL KILLS NINE OF WEDDING PARTY IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—Nine wedding party guests, singing to an accordion accompaniment in a tavern, were killed and the bride and bridegroom were injured by a wild antiaircraft shell fired during last night's German raid on the western Midlands.

The shell crashed thru a window, plowed thru the floor, and exploded in a cellar. Six of the guests were killed outright, including an uncle and a brother of the bride. Three others died shortly afterward.

Give your holiday entertaining this special charm . . . serve WINE

Now more popular than ever before is the gracious custom of wine-serving. So this holiday-time — when friends and family gather at your house — be considerate in your hospitality. Give every guest a chance to make his beverage wine.

With festive dinners bring on piquant, ruby Burgundy or golden Sauterne with the main course. Set out amber-mellow Sherry with your appetizers . . . or in the afternoon or evening, with refreshments, a delicious sweet wine like Port or Muscatel. You'll get compliments galore!

TIPS ON SERVING WINE

TABLE WINES go best with meals. They are made "dry" (not sweet) to complement food. Try tart red Burgundy or Claret; delicate, golden Sauterne or Chablis (well chilled) in medium-size portions.

SWEET WINES go best with refreshments and desserts. They are made rich with the natural sweetness of the grape. Try red Port or golden Muscatel, in a small glass.

AN APPETIZER WINE like Sherry is best before dinner. Sherry is mellow-amber, nutlike in flavor. It is usually served in a cocktail-size glass.

BRITAIN STRIVES TO KEEP SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS ALIVE

People Much Restricted in Second Yule of War.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Scarred and torn from months of heavy air bombardment, London prepared today to make the best of a bad job and to celebrate its second wartime Christmas "as festively as conditions permit."

Dislocation of family life resulting from mobilization of man power for the fighting forces and removal of children, restriction of the holiday period for munitions and utility workers to a single day, rationing, a shortage of food, fruit, toys, manufactured goods and luxury articles normally associated with Christmas, rocketing prices, the depression of the blackout and fear of raiders all combined to mar the usual gayety of the greatest celebration of the year.

Even greeting cards sent to THE TRIBUNE by friends reflect the uncertainty of the outlook, some cautiously reading: "Wishing you as happy a Christmas as possible under the circumstances."

Try to Capture Spirit.

Even in these distressful days, however, there is scarcely a family in the British capital, as far as THE TRIBUNE is able to find out, which is not doing something to attempt to recapture the festive spirit of more peaceful times, whether they are spending Christmas above or below ground.

"The kids at least have to have some sort of a party, Hitler or no Hitler," a bus conductor told THE TRIBUNE today.

He and his family are spending Christmas night in a subway in southeast London where carol singing, games and theatricals as well as a communal dinner have been organized. Similar celebrations are planned in many other public shelters.

There will be no turkeys but a Christmas fare, including ersatz [artificial] plum pudding, cooked to ministry of food specifications, will be prepared in communal kitchens and transported to the large shelters in mobile food vans.

Children to Get Crackers.

Children will be given crackers, sweets, paper hats and toys. For the past week voluntary workers have been busy setting up Christmas trees, holly, mistletoe, colored lights and other decorations.

In country districts thruout Britain also special treats have been arranged for persons removed from cities. Many areas, the ministry of health has announced, have several parties spaced over the Christmas season.

At the request of the war office, thousands of troops having only a few hours' leave and unable to spend Christmas in their own homes, are being entertained in private households thruout the country.

Christmas for Refugees.

Every effort is being made by military and welfare authorities to enable the allied forces on British soil to celebrate Dec. 25 as in their own homeland. The national customs of Norway, France, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, and Holland will be observed with national songs and, as far as possible, national dishes being served.

As a consequence of the government's restriction of transport and curtailment of the holiday period this is to be a "stay home" Christmas. Countless Londoners who have looked forward to a brief visit with their families in the country are disappointed. Not a single extra coach, locomotive, bus, or street car will be allowed to run, according to present plans.

AMERICANS SEE PLANTS POUR OUT BRITISH BOMBERS

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—American correspondents touring three factories in the north of England saw thousands of workers turning strips of metal into heavy, long distance night bombers at a speed that would have seemed incredible a few months ago.

In response to Lord Beaverbrook's "roll out the bombers" appeal, white haired veterans of the factory work bench, smooth faced youths in the khaki uniform of the home guard, boys just out of school, and hundreds of girls in dust caps and striped overalls worked like beavers in halls that covered acres.

Each skeleton plane gradually acquired form as it moved down the assembly line; mighty Rolls Royce engines capable of developing more than 2,000 horse power and of raising a great load of metal and bombs to 15,000 feet in 21 minutes were fitted into place, a few finishing touches were added, and another great Whitley bomber was towed out.

Slovakia and Italy Sign Agreements on Trade

ROME, Dec. 22 (AP).—Italian officials announced today that a pact and other agreements designed to regulate trade between Italy and Slovakia have been signed.

Unique Program

Several hundred soldiers and officers from Fort Sheridan and Chanute field, at Rantoul, Ill., were the guests of the W-G-N audience studio yesterday morning during the broadcast of a unique all-military Chicagoland Church hour conducted by the 6th corps area of the United States army. The services were under the direction of Capt. Roland R. Bach, assistant chaplain of the corps area.

Music for the hour-long service was furnished by the Fort Sheridan chorus of 25 voices and the Winged chorus of 25 voices from Chanute field, the training school of army air mechanics and radio operators. During the broadcast Brig. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commander of the 6th corps, extended Christmas greetings to army camps thruout the corps area.

Government Wins in Early Australian Election Count

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 22.—The tabulation of the votes will not be completed for several days, the first day's counting in the Swan by-election indicates the Country party will retain the seat for the government, despite the largest Labor vote in history. This insures the present government's continuance in office.

Condition of Hungary's Foreign Chief Is 'Critical'

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 22 (AP).—Official quarters described the condition of Count Stephan Csaky, Hungarian foreign minister, as critical tonight. He has been ill since Dec. 15.

WARNS BRITISH THEY MUST STOP EATING SO MUCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—While the Sunday Times air correspondent today warned against invasion of England from the air, Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express vigorously urged as essential to a British victory three changes on the home front:

The paper said that "we cannot if we wish to win sustain our present rate of eating," and that the "immense and avoidable delay in unloading and turning ships seaward again in our harbors" is bringing "closer the prospect of a food shortage." It added that the "war can be lost on our docks."

Demanding immediate government action to grow more food, the paper declared: "There is no use in discussing the harvests of 1942, '43, or '45, but '41, which can win or lose the war." Farmers were told that "this is no time to agitate for profit or haggle over prices."

The writer demanded that the government start immediately to plan 1941 crops and give farmers the money necessary to do their jobs.

CITY CELEBRATES CHRISTMAS THE WORLD AROUND

Foreign Customs Play Big Part in Observance.

The war has blacked out Christmas lights in many lands. What observance there is will be subdued. The Christmas guests may rise from the table still a little hungry, and grope their way down rubble-littered streets. Church bells will have to clang mightily to make their music heard over the sound of droning motors, the crump of bursting bombs and the chatter of antiaircraft guns.

But in America there is peace. Christmas boards will groan with their load of foodstuffs, and in cities thruout this land old country ways of observing the Holy Day will be practiced side by side and mingled with those which have grown up in America. In Chicago, groups of many racial backgrounds celebrate the day with customs that are centuries old. Below are sketched the customs of those groups whose countries of origin are now at war or have been directly affected by war within recent months:

For the Belgians.

Belgians—St. Nicholas' day was observed Dec. 7. Sinter Klaas stopped at their homes the evening before that date and promised good children he would return in the morning, bearing gifts. Most Belgians, however, have adopted American ways and will observe a double Christmas, their tables heaped with platters of speculaas, marsepein and the flat hard klaasjes, seasonal cookies and cakes.

Chinese—Children start Christmas day by folding their hands on arising and wishing each other a good day before opening a single gift. The Chinese have adopted American Christmas customs.

Czecho-Slovakian—Fortune telling with lighted candles floating in walnut shells is an old Christmas eve custom. Each member of the family selects a candle, then gathers around the bowl. If a candle drifts toward you it means good fortune. If your candle outburns those of the rest, you will outlive them. Carp dressed with dark gravy full of almonds and raisins is the Christmas eve fast dish. Christmas delicacies include kuba, made of barley and mushrooms, and vanocka, a twist bread. The Nativity scene is preferred to Christmas trees in most households.

The Danish Christmas.

Danish—Special Christmas cookies or rice pudding are left out Christmas eve for the Julenisser, a tribe of dwarves who live in vacant houses, attics and unused cellars and represent the Christmas spirit.

Dutch—Groups here have preserved the solemn Holy Day celebrations of their native Holland, keeping the material secondary to the spiritual.

Japs Withdraw

1. Where Japanese are reported ready to withdraw in Hongkong area. 2 and 3. Targets of Chinese guerillas. 4. Terminus of highway bombed by Japs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG, Dec. 22.—Reliable Chinese sources today said the Japanese are preparing to withdraw parts of their garrison from Shumchun, near the Hongkong border, after six months occupation, and will place the area in the hands of troops of Wang Ching-wei, Japanese puppet ruler in China.

Japanese military supplies and artillery are being moved from Shumchun last Friday. It is reported anwhere. Chinese guerillas greeted the news of the Japanese withdrawal with fierce attacks on the Kowloon-Canton railway yards north of Shumchum last Friday. It is reported another contingent of guerillas is advancing towards Namtau.

Travelers from the coast report the Japanese have extensively bombed the important Tamshui-Shayuchung highway near Bias bay, one time favorite haunt of Chinese pirates, and that Tamshui was badly damaged. Apparently their objective is the destruction of warehouses, gasoline tanks, and lorries with provisions despatched from the coast by way of Shayuchung to the interior.

The gayer aspects of the season are seen in the week between Christmas and New Year's. Neighbors visit each other and eat krentenbrood [current loaf], krentenkoek, marsepein [almond filled pastry] and roggebrood [rye brown bread].

English—The Yule log and the plum pudding will be standard Christmas props in every household, and carols probably will be sung. The genuine plum pudding includes chopped meat, raisins, ale, brandy, sugar, eggs, and apples. The mass is stirred, then tied in a bag and boiled.

Finnish—"Little Christmas," one of a series of feasts, has already been observed, but the chief observance will be held Christmas Eve, when the festivities come to a close. The sauna, or steam bath, will be the first matter attended to, and the subsequent feasts will include Kinkku ham served with joulu-puuro, or Christmas rice. There also will be herring and lipea-kala, a Scandinavian fish.

French—The community will sit up all Christmas eve and will begin Christmas at 5 a. m., with a church ceremony. Breakfast, served by the oldest member of the family, is likely to include meat pie, tourtierre, made of home ground pork, which is spiced. The early afternoon dinner may be a ragout, pork shank, browned flour gravy and meat balls and spice. There will be wine, of course.

German—The Christmas tree is said to be of Germanic origin and to have been introduced into England after the marriage of Queen Victoria to Albert. Previous to that the tree was brought to this country by German immigrants. German children accredit lighting of the Christmas candles to the Christ Child himself.

Greek—Chicago's colony has been celebrating Christmas many days already. For 40 days before the holiday they abstain from eating meat, cheese, milk, and eggs. This fast will be climaxed Christmas eve with Holy Communion. The actual celebration of Christmas will be held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. The children sing Christmas carols Christmas eve, and Christmas morning visit their grandparents' homes, kneel before them, and kiss their hands as a promise of obedience and respect.

In Italian Homes.

Italian—A tiny nativity scene is usually prepared and it is before this manger that the Befana lays her gifts. The Befana brings gifts to good children. She is sometimes thought of as a kindly old lady, sometimes is not personified. Italian children, however, get their gifts Jan. 6, the Epiphany. Naughty ones get only charcoal from the Befana. Italians will fast tomorrow, observe Christmas eve as a family group.

Norwegian—Christmas eve dinner begins about 6 p. m. with a rice pudding called risgrynsgrodt. A nut is dropped in as the dish is mixed, and the person who finds it in his portion is granted a wish or a prize. The meal ends with Julekake, a cake used only at Christmas time.

Polish—After the traditional Christmas eve supper, families join in the Oplatek, a ceremony in which a special Christmas wafer is divided among them. Music and peasant dances also play a large part in Christmas celebrations, while some groups wander the streets singing carols. Gifts are distributed either Christmas eve or Christmas morning, and the Santa Claus, Gwiasdor, expects cookies to be left for him.

Swedish—The feast includes many varieties of fowl, meat, fish and puddings, salads, cheese and fluffy desserts. There is also the tradional "doppa i grytan," which means dunking bread into stewing meat. The gris huvud, or pig's head, and lut fisk also are considered delicacies, and drinks include aquavit glogg, which is made by mixing spiced cognac and wine.

Colombia Will Deport 7 in Drive on Fifth Column

BOGOTA, Colombia, Dec. 22.—The Colombian government has rounded up eight propagandists and suspected fifth columnists. Seven will be deported and the eighth, Herbert Wolff Jacobs, a Jewish refugee, will be sent to the penal colony at Araracuara. Jacobs has been spreading totalitarian propaganda. The names of the others were not revealed.

Charles S. Miller, Aviation Good Fellow chairman, said the pilots will leave Ashburn airport, southeast of Chicago airport, a few minutes before 10 o'clock with their planes loaded with baskets and fly in loose formation to Chicago airport. Every airport in the Chicago region and one in Indiana will be represented by one or more pilots and a plane.

Girls' Club to Give Toys.

The boys and girls will contribute cash to this year's basket campaign, as well as their singing talents.

Other large Good Fellow organizations taking their gifts to the needy today are the Traffic club of Chicago, the Chicago Rotary club, the Chicago Motor club, and the Metropolitan Community church.

Fifty girls, members of the cast of Michael Tood's "Theater-Cafe" which will open Friday night at Clark street and Lawrence avenue, will take 50 Good Fellow baskets Christmas eve to needy families.

Another group which has joined the campaign is the Chicago Towers club.

KNUDSEN STAND FORCED ON HIM, HIS FRIENDS SAY

War Aims Talk Dictated by Aids, Inquiry Shows.

sen statement for debate in congress include:

1. Do the American people subscribe to a policy of underwriting the defeat of Germany by Great Britain, to the exclusion of all efforts for a negotiated peace, even if it means American entry into the war?

2. If this is the policy of this country, what are Great Britain's war aims? What will the peace settlement be like if Germany is defeated? Will there be another Versailles treaty, ending in another world war?

The use of Knudsen for the issuance of the "irreconcilable" statement has revived speculation as to the extent of his authority as director of the four-man supercouncil. President Roosevelt made it plain, when he announced on Friday the plan to create the new agency, that Knudsen would be no czar, poohbah or second President of the United States.

Contemptuous of Demands.

The President used these terms almost contemptuously in rejecting demands that the defense effort be placed in the hands of a single administrator, with full responsibility and authority to obtain results.

The New Deal radicals strongly resent Knudsen's popularity and influence. They have fought against turning the defense effort over to the industrialists, whom they distrust, and have sought to take advantage of the defense emergency for their own purposes. They induced Mr. Roosevelt to make Hillman, the labor representative, an associate director of the new agency.

Knudsen and Hillman, as members of the old advisory denfense commission, have clashed frequently, particularly on Hillman's radical labor proposals, and presumably this cleavage will continue on the new four-man body. If so, the disputes will be carried to Mr. Roosevelt for his decision, as in the case of the old commission.

President Foments Friction.

President Roosevelt's vacillations between the New Deal radicals on one side and the industrialists, the army, and the navy on the other, as well as his refusal to delegate adequate authority to any one, has caused considerable friction between him and Knudsen. Knudsen's friends are fearful that the situation will not be much different with the new setup.

Knudsen, these friends declare, is motivated by a fervent patriotism and his situation has troubled his conscience. The question is whether he could serve his country better by resigning in protest or making the best of what he regards as a bad situation. Thus far he has done the latter.

France Authorizes Curb on the Use of Electricity

VICHY, France, Dec. 22 (AP).—The government gave the ministry of production authority today to forbid sales of electrical appliances or to forbid the use of electric heaters where electric power is limited. It may also enforce reductions in lighting and modify working hours in manufacturing plants using electrical equipment.

PROPOSES PLAN COMMISSION TO SPEED DEFENSE

Economy League Aim to Aid New Board.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Creation of an advisory planning commission to study defense needs, aid in consolidating the defense effort and provide a critical examination of departmental requests for funds, was urged today by the National Economy league.

The league emphasized that the proposed commission would not conflict with the four man defense board, President Roosevelt set up Thursday in an attempt to revive collapsing defense production.

It was emphasized that the duties of the four man board are primarily of procurement whereas the proposed commission would concern itself with planning.

"The league's desire is to contribute to the solution of our defense problem as it first arises in the planning and appropriating stage," said Ernest Angell, league chairman. "The gravity of the situation has been brought forcibly to the public's attention by recent developments. It now seems generally agreed that we lack the kind of organization necessary to achieve quickly a full and balanced defense without waste, which obstructs and weakens."

Families Must Pay $900.

The league's proposal was advanced in a 10,000 word study prepared by Willard D. Arant, its research director, working with Harley L. Lutz, professor of economics at Princeton university.

In undertaking the study it was noted that the defense program projected for the current fiscal year, which ends next June 30, will cost the average American family $15 a month over the next five years. The total cost for the average family will be $900.

[In millions of dollars.]

	Appropriations.	Authorizations.	Total.
Army	5,701	2,979	8,680
Navy	2,549	5,842	8,391
Civil	584	187	771
Totals	8,834	9,009	17,842

The study said that questions involving the balance of different parts of the defense program, one against the other cannot be satisfactorily dealt with under the present administrative setup.

"They belong," the study said, "in the province of a group of men who are not handicapped by heavy administrative duties, who are not bound by too much tradition, and who can determine and convincingly demonstrate to other agencies of the government that this piece of equipment is needed now and that piece of equipment must be deferred."

The study suggests that the commission should include military and naval experts, selected from among active officers [who would be detached from all other duties], from among retired officers [including perhaps some who disagree with departmental organization and policy], or from among civilians who have devoted many years to study of the stragegy of warfare.

The field of selection might well include also members of congress who have long been connected with national defense legislation, but whose efforts toward a sound defense plan are hindered by numerous uncoördinated committees.

Men and Materials Vital.

"It is not too late to establish such a commission, and its work would not delay the essential parts of the defense program in the least. On the contrary, by eliminating or deferring those parts judged not to be important, but which compete economically with those which are, the commission could speed the attainment of the most vital goals.

"With so many billions of dollars available, there is danger that the criterion of success will be the speed with which that money can be expanded. Defense is, however, not a matter of dollars, but of trained men and physical equipment. Too many dollars sent after the same limited supplies of materials and skilled labor will lead to confusion and waste.

Best Christmas Gift!

THE best Christmas gift for your family would be a safe and sane America!

The best protection you possibly can give your children on this tense Christmas Day of 1940 would be complete independence and freedom from the perils of international political intrigue against the peace and security of their country and yours.

We are giving away our national substance, exactly as we gave it away in 1917-1918. And to what purpose?

Soon we may be at total war again unless you spring into immediate action in defense of all the traditions of a free America, as handed down to us by such men as Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Patrick Henry, Abraham Lincoln and a host of great patriots. They never could have dreamed that those things to which they dedicated their lives might one day be sacrificed to satisfy the lust for political and economic power of the governments and men who are the real makers of great wars.

Help the No Foreign War Committee NOW in its fight, to the last ditch, to prevent the interventionists of 1940 from bringing upon the world a calamity such as it never has known before, by dragging the greatest nation of them all down to the wreckage which inevitably follows total war.

Please send your contributions at once to our Treasurer, Robert A. Lancaster. Every penny of contributions received by us will be acknowledged and accurately recorded. One of the best firms of certified public accountants in the U. S. A. will render an accounting of our receipts and disbursements, weekly.

Until now the money and credit of the newspaper with which I am identified, out in Iowa, has financed this entire campaign to keep the United States out of war, at the same time completely preserving the honor, dignity, and power which are inherently America's. We Iowans are not millionaires, and we are thinking only of our country.

We cannot much longer compete alone against the resources supporting the William Allen White Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Our funds will be inadequate unless there is substantial aid, at once, from patriotic Americans. Advertisements such as this cost money—thousands of dollars—when inserted in many newspapers, and this one is being published from coast to coast.

No people comprehend better than Americans the solemn and impressive significance of the Christmas Day. If you would act in conformance to the purpose for which died the Man whose birth is to be universally celebrated on December 25, please make your contribution to Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men by immediately helping the No Foreign War Committee, either at New York City or Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Unnecessary delay in our receipt of adequate funds for this campaign to preserve the America we love easily might cause the loss of this battle.

VERNE MARSHALL, Chairman.

Write or wire President Roosevelt, your Senators and Representatives, that you are expecting them, as your governmental servants, to keep this country out of any foreign war.

THE GERMAN PROTEST.

Germany does not want war with the United States. Herr Hitler may have his crazy moments—few to his own disadvantage—but he is not that crazy. Some Americans do want war with Germany. They do not want to fight it themselves, but they want it. They are trying to get it. Mr. Roosevelt, it is to be suspected, is one of them. He appears as their leader.

Many pledges against this war have been given the people. Mr. Roosevelt himself has been unqualified in his promises that nothing he did would send an American soldier to Europe. But everything he does points that way. The pledges would not stand in the way if Germany declared war.

Germany in its relations with the United States has been what the diplomats call correct. With a self-interested restraint it has refrained from controversy. It has observed guns, munitions, planes, and warships flowing from the American ports to England and has not protested. Now the spokesman for the German foreign office tells the correspondents in Berlin that the relations between Germany and the United States hang in the balance and that it is "unbearable" for his country to allow things to drift further.

His particular reference was to the proposal of Ronald Cross, British minister of shipping, that the United States help tide over next year by seizing enemy shipping in American ports. That, said the German foreign office, would be an act of war.

To provoke Germany to declare war would fit in the policy of the American war party. It would relieve the war party of responsibility. It would cancel the pledges. We may assume that Germany will not do so, not unless it can tempt Japan in also and give the United States a war on two fronts with a navy built for one. Then it might.

THE TRIBUNE AND WPA.

One of our friends who has the misfortune to be stuck on WPA has a letter today in the Voice of the People, the logic of which we indorse. At the risk of gilding the lily we are going to preach a little more on the text he has already expounded so ably.

Money making is not the only nor the primary purpose for which THE TRIBUNE is published, but it is an essential purpose. It is essential because the only newspapers that can maintain a strong and independent editorial policy are those that earn enough money to pay expenses and set aside reserves for the hazards of an extremely risky business. The newspaper that consistently loses money eventually has to borrow to keep going, and when it borrows it finds sooner or later that the lender calls the tune of its editorial policy. This may not be as it ought to be, but it is the way it is, and it is the way it is whether the person who controls the loan is a Republican banker or a Democratic politician.

And now, leaving aside any humanitarian interest in them as fellow citizens, we propose to examine the WPA workers and reliefers of Chicago purely in the light of THE TRIBUNE'S interest in them thru its desire to make money. Is THE TRIBUNE, as our correspondent quotes WPA supervisors as saying, "a capitalistic enterprise busily supporting the rich and in no way interested in the poor reliefers"?

A capitalistic enterprise? Of course. That's what we're talking about just now. Busy supporting the rich? If that means supporting the profit system, which during the last two centuries has made a few Americans rich and given the rest of Americans the highest standard of living in history, of course, again. But if it means supporting the rich merely because they are rich, why should we? The rich don't support THE TRIBUNE.

We mean that literally. We make money by selling newspapers and selling advertising. To our circulation department, the five richest men in Chicago are worth just a dime a day. Or make it 20 cents, since they probably leave a copy at home for their wives. And as customers for Tribune advertisers, the rich aren't very important. It isn't that they don't spend freely, but that there aren't enough of them. The money we make selling space to advertise sable wraps wouldn't keep Tribune Tower in lead pencils. It's the ads for $1.89 house dresses that meet the pay rolls.

Now, if the WPA supervisors have been reading Honest Harold, they would interject at this point that it is the rich who give THE TRIBUNE its advertising. That's not true. Nobody "gives" THE TRIBUNE advertising. We have to go out and sell it, a task that occupies the time and ingenuity of several hundred very capable men and women.

And nobody buys advertising in THE TRIBUNE because he likes its editorial policies. We aren't doing an advertiser any favor when he signs a Tribune contract and he isn't doing us any favor. We wouldn't be selling advertising if we didn't make a profit on it and he wouldn't be buying it if he didn't make a profit. If he doesn't make his profit we don't make ours, because he quits advertising.

THE TRIBUNE already has such a commanding lead in the Chicago newspaper field, both in circulation and advertising revenue, that our only hope of substantial increase in profits is in seeing Chicago become a larger and more prosperous city. In particular our hopes of more profit depend upon the middle class in Chicago becoming larger and more prosperous.

By the middle class we do not refer to that arbitrary classification according to income which some sociologists and social workers have set up. Our idea is that the middle class consists of all the people who think they are members of that class, which according to surveys is 85 per cent of the people in the country. It consists of all the people with good jobs and comfortable homes.

The more people there are in Chicago with good jobs and comfortable homes, the more money every one in the community will make, including THE TRIBUNE. Thus we do have an interest in the "poor reliefers," a direct, selfish financial interest. So long as they remain on relief or WPA they are, as far as THE TRIBUNE is concerned, frozen assets. But when they get jobs in private employment, at higher wages, they enlarge every one's market, including that of THE TRIBUNE.

We might point out that our interest in the reliefers and WPA workers is directly opposite to that of the political supervisors of relief and WPA. When the reliefers get back on their feet we will make more money, but the supervisors will be out of a soft job.

THE BRITISH SHIP SUPPLY.

Ronald Cross, British minister of shipping, has expressed the hope that the United States will hand over to Britain the merchant ships of Germany, Italy, and Denmark which are interned in our ports. He was greatly alarmed, he said, at the losses which the submarines are causing. He hoped also that American ships might be taken off neutral trade routes and placed in the British service. "Wherever we see a ship," he said, "we cast a covetous eye."

There are facts about the present shipping situation which do not support this gloomy view of the British position. If the shortage is so acute it is difficult to understand why no effort appears to have been taken to make use of the St. Lawrence fleet. Something like 150 of these vessels of Canadian register are now being tied up for the winter. They were not designed primarily for ocean duty but they can be drafted for it and in the aggregate could carry an immense quantity of goods. They could be returned to their St. Lawrence service in the summer.

In addition to the Canadian lakers there is a substantial fleet of American flag ships of the same class which might be drawn upon. The seaworthiness of the St. Lawrence fleet is attested by the fact that many of them were built in England or Scotland and crossed the ocean on their maiden voyages.

The steps which the minister of shipping has recommended could hardly fail to get us into the war. It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the recommendation was inspired less by alarm at the losses than from a desire to project us into the conflict. A very different picture from that painted by Mr. Cross was presented in a recent article in the authoritative London Economist. Said the Economist:

"Thanks largely to the ships put at our disposal by our allies and to the vessels captured from enemy countries, our present supply of ships is satisfactory. Since the beginning of the war our new supplies from all sources—the ships of our new allies, Norway, Holland, Greece, and Belgium, vessels temporarily taken over from France and Denmark, tonnage captured from Germany and Italy, ships purchased abroad and chartered from neutral countries, together with the output of our shipyards—aggregated some 10 million gross tons; if allowance is made for losses, the net addition to the total tonnage at our disposal still amounts to some 7 million gross tons."

With so much shipping at their disposal the British have been able to take in huge amounts of foreign goods. For the first nine months of this year total imports of the United Kingdom were up 33 per cent from the same period last year. Imports of raw materials rose 55 per cent, of manufactured goods 40 per cent, and of a group of commodities classified as "food, drink, and tobacco," 17 per cent.

If it becomes necessary to step up imports further, tonnage of the British flag or subject to call of the British in no insignificant quantities is still engaged in neutral trade in the Pacific and the Indian oceans and elsewhere, and can be diverted. Many Norwegian ships are still engaged in the run between New York and Baltimore and the West Indies. Norwegian tankers regularly ply between Venezuela and ports north of Hatteras. With the huge increase in tonnage at its disposal, despite the Nazis, the judgment of competent persons is that the British commercially are in a strong position at sea. If a shortage develops ships can be transferred from neutral routes. Talk of the need for American vessels or the interned ships to feed Britons is sheer nonsense. As long as there is any shipping it will be for Britain. The commerce of the world will dwindle before the commerce of England does. There will always be plenty of shipping, thoroly guarded, for food.

THESE HYDE PARK LOGS.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

Over thousands and thousands of acres of the world's surface, as this goes into print, as many thousand tons of high explosives are plowing the oft-turned earth far deeper than it was ever delved by man, and leaving many monuments to man's patient craftsmanship in hopeless ruins. As this goes to print men are coughing up their life's blood and gasping out their souls from points in the upper Yangtse valley to points in the cold gray Atlantic west of Ireland. As this goes to print thousands of clerks, whose signatures to checks could add millions to the debt of the United States of America, are sleeping the sleep of the innocent.

But it also happens that as this goes to press, the hands on a certain estate at Hyde Park, N. Y., are resting from honest toil, their day's stint having been that of burning into little chunks of white birch the inscription: "F. D. R. Estate, Hyde Park, N. Y." These workers are indeed sleeping off evidence, duly inscribed in wood, that war or no war, business as usual is going on in the entourage of the Roosevelt family.

These chunks of birch, with the Presidential blessing on them, are to be used as Christmas dinner centerpieces. They cannot be very large. If they were cordwood length and six inches in diameter, which they probably are not, they might be worth as much as five cents each on the firewood market. But they are to be sold at one dollar, one simoleon, one large iron man, or whatever you care to call it, a log, just because they came from the estate of F. D. R.

There has been nothing said about the proceeds of this fancy firewood business being given to charity. Maybe that was the purpose of it, or maybe not. In neither event do we like it. If President Roosevelt is trading on his title for Christmas sales, it is a scandal. If he is exploiting his name and title for charity, it sounds too much like royalty lending its monogram to charity for this country's taste. However this idea was inspired, it was inspired in bad taste, and we sincerely hope that American good taste will kill it.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

SPEAKING OF CHRISTMAS TREES.

There is a famine in Christmas tree ornaments this year. The foreign supply of pretty glass dingle-dangles has been cut off, and the American contribution to this branch of commerce is, as far as our observation goes, utterly lacking in a sense of holiday fantasy. If you have been shopping for ornaments fit to catch the artistic eye of Santa Klaus, you will know what we mean.

The best ornaments for old school Christmas trees came from Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, and, latterly, Japan. They were the work of craftsmen who spent their lives at this form of glassblowing, and who had inherited the knack from their fathers, grandfathers, and great-grandfathers. The American substitutes are painfully inferior.

So if you have a box of old ornaments that have been accumulated thru the years, you are lucky. Treat them gently this year, for they are rare items. And warn your children to handle these fragile symbols of the Christmas spirit with care.

* * *

Cellophane tinsel, however, is an improvement on the old school silvery stuff. It permits the lights to shine thru the tree, and improves the effect of sparkling. Credit the cellophane to America.

* * *

If you are a true Christmas ritualist, you will not light up the domestic tree until Christmas eve, and you will keep it lighted every night until New Year's day.

* * *

The most ingenious mounting for a Christmas tree is in the Tribune's composing room. It's a small tree on a perch where it might easily be knocked over; so the printers set its base in a pan and then poured in molten type metal.

* * *

The best Christmas tree ornamenter in Chicago, among the amateurs, is Mrs. Robert Pijzel. She dresses the trees at the Tavern, the Casino, and other clubs; and when she has hung the last gewgaw in place the tree is a thing of beauty and a joy until New Year's. One of her fine touches is to have every light bulb standing up straight, in the manner of their ancestral candles.

CHRISTMAS PROBLEM.

The light of my life is as thoughtful a wife
As ever a husband could boast;
She never serves mutton, nor asks help to button,
Nor offers me overdone toast;
But asked, "What do you want for Christmas, my dear?"
She says, "Just don't bother about me this year."

The light of my life is as thrifty a wife
As ever a poor man could wish;
She darns and she mends and she superintends
The children, canary, and fish;
But says, to the question, "And what for you, Mother?"
"Let's give to the youngsters instead of each other."

The light of my life is as skilful a wife
As ever a fellow could ask;
She bakes gorgeous cakes and she has what it takes
To do the most difficult task;
But why, when once more the glad Yuletide has come,
Can't she give some hint to a guy who is dumb?

The Voice of His Honor the Mayor, 1880.

So you think the proceedings of the Chicago city council are dull reading? Glance at this passage from a message by Mayor Carter H. Harrison [the elder] on Jan. 12, 1880, in vetoing certain amendments to the building ordinances:

"I would call your attention to the fact that during the last year 79 fires originated in wooden barns and sheds situated on alleys. This was one-eighth of all the fires of the year. The ghost of Mrs. O'Leary's cow haunts the bedsides of thousands of Chicago's slumberers. Let us not invite the mild-eyed daughters of her sisters, her cousins, and her aunts to kick over future lamps, whereby $200,000,000 of property may again go up in smoke, and 100,000 people be driven homeless beggars into the streets. The admiring world expects other things from Chicago's sagacity."

A Glossary for Book Lovers.

The good Abbé Rive, who wrote some 200 years ago, defined the various kinds of book hobbyists as follows:

Bibliognoste—One knowing in title pages, colophons, and editions; the place and year when printed; the presses whence issued and all the minutiæ of a book. [The abbé invented this term.]

Bibliographe—A describer of books and other literary arrangements.

Bibliomane—An indiscriminate accumulator of books.

Bibliotaphe—One who buries his books by keeping them under lock, or framing them in glass cases.

LETTER TO AN OLD MAN.

Dear Sir: Your record makes it evident
That we must make a change in management.
When you took charge, with outlook fresh and clear,
We had high hopes for you. But now the year
Is almost gone and we must say that you
Have not accomplished what we'd hoped you'd do.
And so, in line with present policy,
On January 1st please learn that we
Are bringing in a younger man—your son.
We hope he'll do the things you should have done.

RHINOPHYMA, OR THE OVERAMBITIOUS NOSE.

MONSTROUS enlargements of the end of the nose go under the high sounding name, "rhinophyma," altho commonly, the terms "whisky," "copper," or "nodular" are employed.

In the minds of most laymen, the steady use of alcohol is thought to be responsible. This belief is without the slightest foundation. The cause is a disease of the skin, acne rosacea, which produces a chronic congestive condition of the nasal appendage and certain portions of the face. The disorder comes on, as a rule, in middle life, and men are afflicted more frequently than women.

Altho the malady is slow in developing it may progress steadily. At first, a persistent flushing or redness is observed, which is followed later by a permanent dilatation of the capillaries. Pustules are usually present and there is a substantial amount of overgrowth. Lobulated masses may form, leading to bumpiness. In many cases, the pores are "open" and filled with cheesy matter or pus. With any degree of engorgement which continues no difficulty is encountered in making the diagnosis.

In a sense, the complaint may be likened to a sort of mushroomlike tumor, with added connective tissue and blood vessels. After a time, the chronic character cannot be mistaken, as the parts fail to recede under routine treatment.

Cure lies in surgery. The extra material may be removed, the proboscis reshaped, and—without skin grafting—healing will occur rapidly. This is accomplished because so many islands of covering cells remain in the sebaceous glands. From these areas, new epidermis spreads until the entire structure has returned practically to normal. It is no longer believed that grafts from the arm or forehead are essential to a good cosmetic outcome.

While X-ray treatment may be successful in some cases, it will be of more value when applied to beginning examples of acne. Occasionally, experts will recommend Roentgen exposures both before and after the operation.

Why is the disturbance of importance? Because the disfigurement and personal embarrassment may be so great as to drive victims into hiding—divorcing them from association with others. No disgrace attaches to the ailment, unless we can assume that the victims should have sought skilled medical aid earlier.

But some physicians do not know apparently how easily many of these sufferers can be helped. An individual may endure the affliction for years because he has been told that nothing can be done. Perhaps it comes on so slowly that it is accepted as inevitable. As soon as patients learn that eradication is possible they are more than willing to accept the procedure.

What about acne rosacea? This is one of the most stubborn of skin derangements. The characteristic redness of the nose and sometimes of the cheeks gradually increases, with more glands within the epidermis. In fact, numerous new secreting depots are formed and the underlying layers become thicker and thicker.

Many authorities believe that the trouble is of digestive origin. For this reason a vegetable and cooked fruit diet is prescribed, with meat once daily. All stimulating foods and beverages are excluded. Five or six small meals are better than the regulation three. If the stomach is deficient in hydrochloric acid, supplying this element may influence the appearance of the cuticle. Only in the late stages, however, will we encounter the deformity under discussion. Even so, the results of expert surgery are too favorable to be neglected.

TWO SKIN DISORDERS.

L. B. F. writes: What is the difference between ringworm and eczema?

REPLY.

The former is caused by infection with a plant parasite and the latter by some sensitivity in the skin. The irritating agent may be a particular food or an article of clothing [such as fur]. Dyes or cosmetics may be responsible.

VIA TELEPHONE.

S. W. writes: Can colds or other infections be spread by common use of the telephone?

REPLY.

Not if the conversation burns up the wires. Organisms can lodge on the mouthpiece and remain alive for a few hours. In many offices, the practice is followed of cleaning the instruments daily with a solution of alcohol.

THE HARDY PERENNIAL

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

WPA AND THE TRIBUNE.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—In WPA circles, especially among supervisors, when the name of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is mentioned, it is the signal for boos and groans and disparaging remarks. Those who raise their voices against THE TRIBUNE seem to have the opinion that your paper is devoting a large part of its time to fighting the unfortunates on WPA and direct relief. No use pointing out that you are battling with those who mishandle the administration of relief and not the recipients thereof. You're a "capitalistic enterprise busily supporting the rich and are in no way interested in the poor reliefers."

Let's see if I can guess why you really are interested in the rehabilitation of all reliefers and near-reliefers. As a newspaper what profits you make are derived from advertising. As long as people respond to advertisements in your paper by purchasing the articles or service advertised you stand a chance to make a profit. The greater the response the greater the advertising space purchased by the advertisers. Now, only those with sufficient income to pay for advertised goods buy such goods. Those on relief or near-relief form no market for the articles or services advertised in your paper. They are only a potential market. You are interested in the development of this potential market thru the reëmployment of its individuals at salaries sufficiently above WPA and relief checks to enable them to buy the articles and services advertised in your paper, because you know the larger the market the more will be spent for advertising.

Now, do these Tribune knockers think that the brains which built your vast enterprise are not sharp enough to know this? No, they do not think this. They simply don't think. They're too busy knocking to think.

Fellow reliefers, believe me when I say that every wallop THE TRIBUNE takes at these screwball New Dealers is a wallop made in our behalf. THE TRIBUNE wants us to get back on our feet again so that we can purchase advertised goods—they want to change us from a potential market to an actual market. A WPA-ER.

QUERIES FOR MR. CASSIDY.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Attorney General Cassidy should be proud of himself since he put over 20,000 men out of work. Most of these men know only that sort of work—in the handbooks.

How can a man with a conscience put so many men out of work at this time of the year? It will be a dismal Christmas for their families. It seems all right to bet on horses at the racetracks, but what difference where you bet on horses—it's gambling?

People have gambling blood in their veins. They want handbooks because they can bet from 25 cents up. Can they do that at the track? People even have to pay admission at the track.

MARY GILLIS.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—What's the trouble, Mr. Cassidy? Why close handbooks in the state and let the tracks accept bets? Is it that the rich still control politics?

A BUSINESS MAN.

KILLING DEMOCRACY AT HOME.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Last night I attended the dinner given by the William Allen White Committee of Chicago to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Prominent in the proceedings was an impressive array of those New Deal royalists who worked for Roosevelt so loudly in the last campaign.

Believe it or not, their plea was to aid Great Britain in the name of democracy, but not a word from one of them about preserving democracy in America. Not a word, for example, in favor of the Walter-Logan bill. They were apparently entirely indifferent to the fact that in vetoing it Roosevelt will be robbing Americans of the chief right gained by mankind under the Magna Charta way back in 1215 A. D.

Then for the first time in all history it was declared that no free man could be deprived of property or liberty "except by the legal judgment of his peers or by the law of the land" [Nisi per legem terrae]. Now after 725 years Roosevelt is to take this basic right away from Americans.

I am an officer of a society that is raising funds to help British victims of war, and I hope many Chicagoans will help them, but never was there a greater display of bunk than these New Dealers begging Americans to help the cause of democracy abroad while they assist in its assassination at home.

Some of this group seem more than keen to send our boys to fight for democracy abroad, only to return to an America where Roosevelt has abolished democracy.

The climax of the farce was reached when, amid loud applause, a huge picture of Honest Harold Ickes was thrown on the screen. There's a defender of American democracy for you!

The republic is in danger from within, but these happy, if vicarious, warriors showed no concern whatever on this score. Long live the New Deal royalists.

AIR IN THE SUBWAYS.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Dr. Cutter's article this morning on germ laden air is appreciated by women but not by Mayor Kelly and his subway experts. Why are not the air grates raised 10 feet above the street so that comparatively fresh air and not the foulest possible air will be pumped into the subway for straphangers to breathe? MRS. J. RAFFERTY.

P. S.: I forgot that city fathers do not use street cars.

WIDOW NEARING 40.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—How does a widow go about getting a job to get off relief? I have gone from factory to factory, stood in lines for hours, but always received the same answer: "No women today." It is the same in stores unless one is just out of high school. They do not want inexperienced women nearing 40. I am that, but I am strong, healthy, and very willing to work just so I can keep my family together and pay my way, which I cannot do on what the relief allows me.

MR. HUGHES, PLEASE NOTE.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, placed an unnecessary burden on the backs of Illinois letter carriers and other postal workers by waiting until two weeks before Christmas to release stacks of heavy auto license plates.

TERMS OF WILL.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can you please give me the following information? I am an adopted child. My father died leaving a $40,000.00 estate. Some of this property was left to him by his father. The balance was in joint account with his wife. He has left me $2,000.00 cash. The will states that his widow can dispose of the property any way she wishes.

1. Is this within the law?
2. What difference is there between a legal and adopted child?
3. Must a will be recorded before it is legal?
4. Can I break this will so as to get my grandfather's home after my mother dies? I am the only child. S. H.

1. Yes, unless you can set aside the will by proving undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity. A father can completely disinherit even his blood children.
2. None as far as the question asked is concerned.
3. There is no obligation to record before death of the testator, if that is what you mean to ask.
4. Not unless you can prove undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.

BARKEEP UNION RECEIVERS GET GANG THREATS

Keehn Assistant Clashes with McLane.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Steps were being taken yesterday for the protection of Roy D. Keehn, receiver for local 278 of the bartenders' union, and James U. Sammis, his assistant, who have incurred the enmity of the criminal syndicate headed by Frank [the Enforcer] Nitti and Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton.

Keehn [top] and Sammis.

Keehn admitted he had been insulted and abused over the telephone, and threats of death were made to Sammis, according to Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's police.

Keehn said, however, that he and Sammis were able to take care of themselves and had no fear of the Nitti gang. Both refused an offer of police bodyguards.

McLane Ouster Move Expected.

One of the first moves in their behalf is expected to be a request for the immediate discharge or suspension of George B. McLane, business agent of the bartenders' union. McLane is responsible for the receivership.

It was he who complained some months ago that Nitti had seized control of the union and its 4,000 bartenders. However, when asked subsequently to testify against Nitti in the Criminal court, when Nitti was brought for trial as a result of McLane's charges, McLane refused to testify on the ground he might incriminate himself.

McLane was reported to have derided Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne's authority over the union last week and to have had several clashes with Sammis.

Clash with McLane Told.

It was learned Sammis and McLane quarreled over the selection of 17 bartenders who are to be employed in a café which will be opened soon at Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

McLane said the café managers wanted him to select the bartenders. It was learned Sammis and McLane were present at the café Friday when the managers made their own selection from a group of union bartenders recommended by both McLane and Sammis.

Two former assistant business agents, Henry Thiebeau and Tom Panton, were being sought by Lieut. Egan, who said they had threatened to kill Sammis. Numerous complaints from bartenders and tavern owners have named the two as muscle men reported to be among leading campaigners for the reelection of McLane and the election of McLane's running mate, James Crowley, as president of the union.

Election Set by Judge.

Judge Dunne, who has jurisdiction over the union as a result of a receivership petition filed before him last summer by McLane, has arranged for a union election Jan. 6.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney has several plans for combatting the Nitti-Stanton gangsters, but the first hinges on whether Judge Dunne will reopen the nomination lists for the election. Two of McLane's principal opponents announced their withdrawal in the last two weeks.

One of McLane's original opponents, Arthur Donahue, told Courtney he quit because of job promises which had been made to him. He said he then started on a secret campaign of discouraging his fellow candidates for other union offices. The next McLane opponent to withdraw was Jerry Forney, an assistant business agent.

GIRL, 17, KILLED AND 2 HURT IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH

Rumble Seat Rider Dies in 2d Accident.

Miss Jean Snyder, 17 years old, 2438 Louis street, Blue Island, was killed yesterday and two companions, Leonard Van Pelt, 22, and Robert Doyle, 17, both of 14626 Avers avenue, Midlothian, were injured when Van Pelt's car and an oil truck collided at 127th and Wood streets, Blue Island. The truck driver was Louis Richter of Lockport.

Adam Polenishak, 20, of 1744 Le Moyne street, was thrown out of a rumble seat and fatally injured in a two car crash at North avenue, just west of Oak Park. Wallace W. Davis, 20, 1728 Franklin avenue, Forest Park, was driving the second car.

Found Dying at First-Aid Station.

Frank Petek, 33, of 724 Scott street, a laborer, was found dying, apparently the victim of a hit-run driver, in the hallway of a first-aid station at 1216 North Halsted street. He died while being taken to Henrotin hospital. Police said he apparently had crawled to the hallway before his strength gave out.

Dan Waddy, 35, colored, 4646 Evans avenue, was burned to death and his companion, Otis Hanson, also colored, of the same address, was injured critically when Waddy's truck overturned and caught fire on route 49 near Kankakee.

Killed as Car Overturns.

Cornelius J. Hurley, 22, of 146 Intercean avenue, Chicago Heights, was killed when the automobile of George Pfeifer, 25, of 18 East 24th street, Chicago Heights, in which Hurley was riding, overturned in Chicago road one mile north of Thornton. Pfeifer, who was injured, was taken to St. Francis hospital.

David Becker, 78, a retired department store buyer, died in Chicago hospital of injuries incurred earlier in the day when he stepped from behind a parked car in front of his home at 1328 East 53d street into the path of an automobile. The driver, George Gardner, 221 West 72d street, was held.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 869 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 635 were killed in Chicago, where 23,208 were injured in traffic during the same period.

500 National Guards Here on Furlough from Camp

More than 500 members of the 202d coast artillery, Illinois National guard, which is stationed at Fort Bliss, Tex., arrived in Chicago aboard two special trains yesterday to spend a six day Christmas furlough. Another contingent of 325 men will arrive Saturday for a New Year's furlough.

GREEN HALVES INAUGURAL COST IN ECONOMY MOVE

Asks Military Guard Be Reduced.

Gov.-Elect Dwight H. Green yesterday followed up his early declaration that there will be no extravagance in connection with his inauguration three weeks from today. He directed changes in the program that, it was said, will halve the costs to be paid out of public funds.

Ferre C. Watkins.

His wishes were made known after a conference with Ferre C. Watkins, one of his advisers who is general chairman of the inauguration committee, and Charles F. Cutter, secretary of the citizens' committee which is raising privately the funds for the governor's inaugural ball. Watkins had just returned from Springfield with a budgeted estimate of all expenditures contemplated.

Demands Itemized Account.

If recent precedent were to be followed, Green was told, the bill paid by the taxpayers would be about $9,000, a large part of which would come from contingent funds appropriated for emergencies. The governor-elect directed that this questionable procedure be dropped, and that the entire cost of his induction to office be covered in an itemized appropriation bill to be presented to the general assembly.

Green next asked Adj. Gen. Leo M. Boyle to reduce the size of the military escort. Custom provides for an escort of an entire National Guard battalion. This would involve payment of time, travel expense, and food for a large number of officers and men. Green said that a single company would be sufficient escort.

Economies Must Start at Once.

"Aside from the necessary charges for printing the inaugural message to the legislature, the invitations and the tickets, I have asked that expense be cut everywhere," Green asserted.

"The inaugural ceremony should have the dignity befitting such an occasion, but economies should start with my induction into office. That moment also will terminate the use of contingent funds for purposes of this sort and as far as possible my administration will abolish the appropriation of contingent funds."

SIX OF FAMILY KILLED IN AUTO CRASH; 7TH MEMBER IS INJURED

Flomaton, Ala., Dec. 22 (AP).—Six members of a Georgia family were killed and a seventh injured slightly here early today when their automobile crashed thru a railroad overpass railing after a collision with a truck and plunged to the tracks 35 feet below.

The state highway patrol identified the dead as:

C. P. Kiff, 40; his wife, Mrs. Willie Bell Kiff, 39; two of their children, Betty, 9, and Jackie, 4; their son-in-law, Walter C. Hornsby Sr., and Walter Hornsby Jr., age 4 months. They were from near Oglethorpe.

Mrs. Walter C. Hornsby, 19, escaped with minor injuries.

The three occupants of the truck were uninjured.

DIES OF HEART AILMENT.

Otto F. Nachtweih, 64 years old, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 4444 North California avenue. Nachtweih was a retired meat salesman.

LABOR-TERRORIST VICTIMS TO VIEW BARBER VANDAL

Victims of labor vandalism will view George Arger, 30 years old, 2054 Lincoln avenue, a member of the bartenders' union, at a special showup in the state's attorney's office today to determine whether he has been acting as a labor terrorist.

Arger has confessed wrecking the interior of a nonunion barber shop owned by Emil Erickson at 2003 Sedgwick street. Erickson and a witness, Sol Provitz, 2011 Lincoln avenue, identified him yesterday.

Lieut. Thomas Kelly is still seeking to identify Arger's companion in the acts of vandalism last Wednesday.

F. S. FITZGERALD, JAZZ AGE NOVEL WRITER, IS DEAD

Career of 'Great Gatsby' Author Ends at 44.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—F. Scott Fitzgerald, 44, novelist, short story writer and scenarist, died at his Hollywood home yesterday. Fitzgerald, author of "This Side of Paradise," and "Tales of the Jazz Age," came to Hollywood in 1937. He adapted his "The Great Gatsby" for the screen, did the scenario for Erich Remarque's "Three Comrades" and other film work. He suffered a heart attack three weeks ago.

F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Told of Hectic Period.

"This Side of Paradise" appeared in 1920 when Fitzgerald was 24, a year after he left the United States army. He had quit Princeton university in his senior year to go into service as a second lieutenant in the 45th infantry.

The hero, Amory Blaine, of "This Side of Paradise," was somewhat a composite of "All the Sad Young Men" of the unsettled postwar "flapper" era and the novel became a sort of social document, in critical estimation.

The term "All the Sad Young Men" was employed six years later as the title of a Fitzgerald short story collection.

Acclaimed for his first novel, Fitzgerald soon wrote "Flappers and Philosophers." Then came "The Beautiful and Damned" in 1922.

A critic described his early works as documentary "in their vivid presentations of adolescent life, its turbulent spirit, swift tempo, charged atmosphere, excesses and boldness, as well as its uncertain psychology and gropings to know itself in new and unadjusted conditions."

Wed Judge's Daughter.

Fitzgerald married Zelda Sayre, daughter of an Alabama Supreme court justice, in 1920. They have one daughter, Frances Scott Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald was born in St. Paul, Minn., and christened Francis Scott Key Fitzgerald in honor of the composer of "The Star Spangled Banner," a maternal ancestor.

Fitzgerald had done little film work recently but turned out occasional short stories and worked on a play for the New York stage.

Funeral services will be held in Baltimore, Md.

2 KILLED; 6 CITIES BLACKED OUT BY STORM ON COAST

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 22 (AP).—A storm howled up the Oregon and Washington coasts last night and early today, killing two and injuring a dozen persons, wrecking buildings and shattering communication lines.

Six cities were blacked out by power failures and dozens of roads were blocked by fallen trees and poles. The two dead were electrocuted near Mount Vernon, Wash., when a high tension wire fell on their automobile.

The mouth of the Columbia river, Willapa and Grays Harbor felt the full force of the storm as the wind rose to 75 miles an hour. Hoquiam, Aberdeen, Raymond, Longview, Olympia, Wash., and Eugene, Ore., were without lights during the night. Ten fires were started in Longview, Portland, Walla Walla, Tacoma, and Seattle reported communications and buildings damaged.

The lumber schooner Davenport, her deck load lost and the hold full of water, was being towed to Astoria, Ore., tonight.

POLICE MEET GIRL AT TRAIN; UPSET ELOPEMENT PLAN

Chicago police received word Saturday that Wilma Gainey, 16 years old, had disappeared from her home in Safford, Ariz., and was headed for Chicago to marry a man from New York city. After watching railroad stations for 20 hours, Detective James Traut and Cornelius Ryan recognized the girl yesterday as she stepped off a train in the La Salle street station.

Miss Gainey told them she planned to meet Joseph Ballaman, 44, of New York, a civil engineer, in the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue. Police found Ballaman at the hotel and took him to Central station for questioning.

Ballaman confirmed the girl's story that they planned to be married. He said they met last summer on a train in Arizona and continued their friendship by letter. Ballaman was held at the detective bureau pending word from Arizona authorities. Miss Gainey was taken to the juvenile detention home.

OBITUARIES

Miss Lucille Mulhall.

Guthrie, Okla., Dec. 22 (AP).—Miss Lucille Mulhall, 55, once known as the "original cowgirl" of the stage, was killed early today in a motor car accident.

Lucille Mulhall.

Also killed was Jean Breezley, 45, of Guthrie, who was driving her car. Another passenger was Charles Mulhall, Miss Mulhall's brother, with whom she lived at the Mulhall ranch. The accident occurred near Mulhall, a town named for her father, the late Col. Zach Mulhall.

Miss Mulhall, once described by President Theodore Roosevelt as the world's most expert horsewoman, developed her skill on cowboy sports as a girl. When she was seven, Col. Mulhall offered her all the yearlings she could rope and brand herself on the large Mulhall ranch. Soon many calves, including 20 of the wildest steers on the ranch, were wearing the initials "L. H."—the girl's personal brand. At 14 she could break a bronco and shoot a coyote at 500 yards.

It was President Roosevelt who suggested to her father that she go on the stage. He had watched her perform at a reunion of his "Rough Riders." She toured the country in vaudeville, with rodeo troupes and made a tour of Europe, performing before many royal boxes.

BOYS WHO NEVER SAW THE SEA ARE THE BEST SAILORS

Midwest Is Recruiting Hub, Says Officer.

Boys who never have seen the ocean make the best sailors.

For that statement you have the word of Commander Paul Stevens, recruiting inspector assigned to the United States courthouse, who said yesterday that the midwest, for many years the country's most fertile recruiting area, this year will send a peacetime record of 18,791 men to Uncle Sam's fleet.

"Middle westerners always have been the backbone of the navy's recruiting," Commander Stevens said. "Altho far from both oceans, the 9th naval district usually provides about one-third of the total recruits for the nation and the largest number for each state.

Farm Boys Best Sailors.

"Hardy farm boys always seem to make the best sailors. They don't expect as much as city boys and are satisfied with the romance of travel in itself. And travel, a chance to see the strange corners of the world, is just what the navy offers American youth."

The 1940 midwestern total, with December enlistments estimated, compares with a 1939 enlistment of 7,967 recruits. The 13 states comprising the 9th district are Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Minnesota.

Stevens said Indianapolis, Ind., and Chicago were lowest in recruiting of the major cities in the area, with 50.9 and 76 recruits, respectively, for each million male residents.

St. Louis Leads List.

Leading cities are St. Louis, Mo., with 141.2; Cleveland, O., 130, and Des Moines, Ia., 106.4

Stevens said confusion over the draft law probably caused the enlistment decrease of the last two months. The district recruited only 2,101 of a 2,880 quota in November, and the December total probably will be approximately 200 below its goal.

Stevens expects a brisk postholiday trade, however.

CAROLINA ROAD CHIEF, NURSE FOUND DEAD IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Ben M. Sawyer, 50 years old, state highway commission chief and storm center of politics for years, and Lucile Hagood, a Negro nurse, were asphyxiated here today in the office of Dr. G. A. Bauer, a chiropractor.

Coroner J. A. Sargent said gas from a water heater in an adjoining room overcame Sawyer and the nurse. The nurse was giving a treatment in the doctor's absence. The bodies were on the floor near the treatment table. Dr. Bauer said later that the treatment by the nurse was "without my knowledge or consent."

Sawyer, a lieutenant colonel in the National Guard, now on active duty, became highway commissioner in 1926. When Olin D. Johnston became governor in 1935 he used troops to seize control of the highway department, ousting Sawyer and those commissioners who did not meet his approval. The state Supreme court restored Sawyer and the commissioners to office.

Only Expectant Parents Bidden to Dec. 31 Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Eugene Swigarts are giving a New Year's eve party that is entirely different from any party ever given, without a doubt. Only couples who are expecting visits from the stork within a few months have been invited. The wives will retire to the second floor of the duplex apartment in which the Swigarts reside at 900 North Michigan avenue, when they have had enough of wining and dining and being merry, and in will come several acts from a night club to entertain the husbands.

Whether the considerate, generous wives will stretch out on the available beds, chaise longue, large chairs, and the like for cat naps until the stag part of the party is finished, we do not know, but we do know that it is one of the most novel parties we've ever heard about.

Lincoln's Christmas Gift from Sherman.

It was 76 years ago yesterday that Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman entered Savannah, completing his march to the sea. That evening he sent a message to President Lincoln, begging to present the city of Savannah as a Christmas gift. Sherman's message to Lincoln, which reached him Christmas eve, and Lincoln's reply to Sherman, are on the Christmas card that Ralph G. Newman, specialist in Lincoln books, is sending his friends this year. Sherman's message:

To His Excellency President Lincoln, Washington, D. C.

I beg to present you as a Christmas gift the city of Savannah, with one hundred and fifty heavy guns and plenty of ammunition, also about twenty-five thousand bales of cotton.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major General.

President Lincoln dispatched a note of thanks and sent it south by Gen. Logan who was departing to join his 15th corps. The letter, dated, "Executive Mansion, Dec. 26, 1864:

My dear Gen. Sherman: Many, many thanks for your Christmas gift, the capture of Savannah.

When you were about leaving Atlanta for the Atlantic coast, I I was anxious, if not fearful; but remembering that "nothing risked, nothing gained," I did not interfere. Now, the undertaking being a success, the honor is all yours; for I believe none of us went further than to acquiesce. And taking the work of Gen. Thomas into the count, as it should be taken, it is indeed a great success. Not only does it afford the obvious and immediate military advantages; but in showing to the world that your army could be divided, putting the stronger part into an important new service, and yet leaving enough to vanquish the old opposing force of the whole,—Hood's army,—it brings those who sat in darkness to see a great light. But what next?

I suppose it will be safe if I leave Gen. Grant and yourself to decide.

Please make my grateful acknowledgments to your whole army—officers and men.

Yours very truly,
A. LINCOLN.

A page turned down in "Life Begins at Forty," too.
A recipe for Zombie hidden in a glove

Candlelit Journey.

One of the heart warming events of the holiday season takes place this afternoon at the Children's Memorial hospital clinic at 2342 Orchard street. The lights in the wards will be turned out and the candlelighted crèche, made each year for the hospital by Mrs. James Ward Thorne, will be wheeled thru, accompanied by nurses carrying candles and singing carols. Mrs. Thorne used a stretcher for the crèche, and steps of silver wood on either side offer space for animals, kings, and the Wise Men. Christmas trees adorned with silver candles flank the Holy Family. The eyes of the little patients gleaming in the candlelight, their own little voices joining in in the carols, and their joy make it a memorable occasion for clinic attendants, as well as for the children.

Celebrity Notes.

The woman in the inconspicuous dark clothes and big floppy hat who sat for several hours over dinner at the back of the Pump room last Friday evening, her back turned toward the room, was Greta Garbo, and the men with her were Dr. Gaylord Hauser, dietitian whose name is linked with hers, and his secretary. The party left yesterday for New York. Miss Garbo spent two days in Chicago. She did some shopping in the loop and visited the Shedd aquarium.

* *

The man with the pale face and clipped mustache who sat in the second seat from the aisle, third row, at the Here Today performance Saturday evening was Somerset Maugham, who is in Chicago for a stay of some days' duration. He, too, was accompanied by his secretary, and they turned up later at the party Everett Wile, Miss Ruth Gordon's producer, gave for her, in celebration of her 25 years on the stage, at the Polo room of the Ambassador East. Miss Lillian Gish, fragile and lovely in white crêpe, and Miss Ruth Chatterton, wearing an off the shoulder gown of pale satin, were at the party to help toast Miss Gordon, who wore a gold embroidered jacket over a scarlet gown. There were lighted Christmas trees and the numerals 25 in ices, lighted by sparklers, borne by waiters about the supper room, and a huge book in which every one wrote something for Miss Gordon.

Adler, Draper Make Eyes of Audience Bulge

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Last evening was an exhilarating time at the Civic theater. There were to be seen and heard there two of the aristocrats of the entertainment world—the harmonica virtuoso Larry Adler and the dancer Paul Draper.

Goggle eyed wonder is a very pleasurable emotion. Again and again this supernatural pair did the kind of thing that makes you laugh from sheer disbelief.

Mr. Adler took the humble harmonica and coaxed from it a variety of tone colorings and a wealth of nuance that made it seem, at isolated moments, a major musical instrument. Far from confining himself to "My Old Kentucky Home," he invaded even such musical fields as Bach and Debussy.

Mr. Draper, with an urbanity, a poise, and an utter command that were of themselves intoxicating, used equally respectable music and found numberless ways of embroidering its rhythms and setting patterns within patterns. He has a knack sometimes of laying bare the very structure of a piece by means of opposing, balancing motion patterns. He is very much more than a tap dancer, of course. A free use of space gives his work scale and a frequent sense of abandon. And by an occasional deft use of actual miming he achieves a delicious humor that has nothing to do with metrical patterns.

What all this amounts to artistically it is hard to say—especially in Mr. Adler's case. It is wonderful to hear a harmonica played like this, but a listener has to be clear headed enough to ask himself: Is this a superlatively skilful stunt or does it actually add something to music's expressive power? It is wonderful to be able to walk on one's hands, but is it really an efficient way of getting about?

With Mr. Draper the answer is much easier. Often he actually illuminates the music with which he is dealing. He points up its rhythms, strengthens and makes graphic its structure, and often adds immeasurably to its communicative power. However, there is evidently something in his work that this reviewer is missing, for an unaccompanied dance, in which Mr. Draper was obviously illuminating no music whatsoever, drew almost as thunderous a response from the house as the accompanied pieces that had preceded it.

Mr. Adler's pianist was Thomas Martin, Mr. Draper's Louis Spielman. At one point the two principals worked together, using twin improvisations.

'The Messiah' Stirs Fervor in Huge Audience

Before a capacity audience fairly bursting with enthusiasm, the Swedish Choral club, Harry T. Carlson, conductor, presented its annual performance of Handel's "Messiah" in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. The soloists were Hilda Ohlin, soprano; Sonia Sharnova, contralto; Joseph Laderoute, tenor; and Herbert Gould, bass. Stanley Martin, organist, and members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra played the instrumental parts.

There is an indescribable thrill in the singing of the Swedish Choral club. The voices are fresh and strong, and there is never a moment when the tone is not beautiful. Sopranos and tenors reach and sustain their top notes without strain, and the massed fortissimo of the whole chorus achieves a majestic splendor. In rapid coloratura passages, such as the ones in "All we like sheep have gone astray," Mr. Carlson has accomplished a miracle of discipline, for his choristers sing with the cleanest possible articulation, yet without any sacrifice or smoothness and flowing vocal line.

Musically the principal virtue of Mr. Carlson's performance is its vitality and liveliness. It cannot honestly be said that his view of the work as a whole possesses either great profundity or comprehensible musical unity. He sees each movement for whatever practical value it may have in immediate performance, and he does not mind sudden distortions of tempo if they permit a momentary choral effect that is to his liking. The performance would have been more moving, tho perhaps less conducive to frequent bursts of applause, if the magnificent resources of the chorus had been kept subservient to a more commanding total artistic plan.

Mme. Sharnova was by far the best of the soloists. Her singing of "He shall feed his flock" disdained all shallow artifice, and presented the music with touching simplicity and smoothness of line. Miss Ohlin devoted her energies to an attempt to make the soprano music sound pretty, and succeeded fairly well in this inadequate aim. Mr. Laderoute, for all his vocal excellence, is developing many artificial oratorio mannerisms. Mr. Gould oversold himself, and would have been better with less theatricalized delivery, tone of sharper focus, and cleaner diction.

Mr. Carlson owes it to himself and to his audience to develop surer technique of orchestral conducting. He is one of the nation's finest chorus masters, and he should not let a technical deficiency with the orchestra decrease the effectiveness of his valuable choral concerts.—C. S.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

More and more shops—and the kind of shops that are scrupulously careful of their reputation for fine work—are making the new kind of permanent wave available to their clients.

This is the wave we told you about some months ago, a heatless wave that puts waves in straight hair by a chemical process. The advantages, principally, are the lack of heat and the fact that no protectors need be used.

Nearly all women who have permanents and certainly those who have had several a year for many years will appreciate the heatless factor. There is no denying that the cumulative effect of heat in waving and drying hair, year in and year out, leaves a lot to be desired. It's our idea that the drying effect could be counteracted if women would do the things they should do to restore the natural oil. If they'd brush the hair, massage the scalp and have hair treatments at reasonable intervals there probably be no ill effects.

One thing we all know is that there's entirely too much dry, burnt-out hair around, and women are clamoring for some miracle to remedy it. The heatless wave doesn't claim to be that—but it does seem to be easier on dry hair than some types of wave are.

The advantage of not using the pads is that the wave looks more like natural curl. It springs from a point very close to the scalp; we like the effect particularly when the hair is worn swirled upward.

It is undoubtedly something to watch, this new method.

'Du Barry Was a Lady' Gayest, Maddest Musical of Season

BY CECIL SMITH.

B. G. DeSylva's rough and rowdy period epic, with Bert Lahr as Louis XV, in unremitting pursuit of Frances Williams as the Countess du Barry, is the maddest, the noisiest, the gayest, and in most ways the best of this season's importation of musicals. It is a lavish and plushy extravaganza to look at, with costumes in the lushest 18th century manner, and with settings that are fanciful and evocative in style, except once or twice when the stains of travel are a bit distressingly evident. It is—to call a spade a spade—a dirty show, but the timeworn smoking room subjects are treated with many a fresh and, I confess, irresistible twist.

Bert Lahr, who is probably the funniest man alive, holds up his share of the performance magnificently. There are moments of letdown when he is not around, but it is not in his nature to permit his audience to suffer an uninteresting second. Near the outset of the play, when he is passing on the secrets of his craft as a washroom attendant to Benny Baker, who is to be his successor, you wonder how he can continue and improve upon his antic behavior for an entire evening. But he does, and surpasses himself later, when, as Louis XV., he is lying face down on a table, waiting for a doctor to arrive to withdraw an arrow Mr. Baker, who is now the halfwit dauphin, has recently shot into his posterior.

Mr. Lahr does not, of course, require period dress in order to be funny, but his regal vestments are a great help. His characterization—if he does not mind the word—of Louis is the oddest imaginable complex of fake aristocracy with low burlesque humor nicely polished up for the consumption of the carriage trade. And, contrary to the time-honored principle of musical comedy, which usually lets things peter out toward the end, the most disintegratingly funny passage of all comes just before the final curtain, when Mr. Lahr and Miss Williams swear eternal fealty in the famous "Friendship" song.

Miss Williams, a gladdening personality and a most efficacious seller of songs, handles the uninhibited rôle of Du Barry to the liking of the audience. Actually her best performance comes after the eighteenth century dream is all over, when a south-of-the-border number is tossed in for good measure. She does not play the Du Barry part with Ethel Merman's cool, sophisticated detachment, but there is something attractive about the hearty openness of her demeanor.

Cole Porter's tunes and lyrics, while not consistently his very best, are unfailingly bright, and even when they are not too sharply pointed, at least they are never witless. The performance has a good deal of entertaining dancing, tho here again Robert Alton has not always maintained his top standard. Of the solo dancers, a little Negro chap named Harold Cromer does the most infectious job.

Benny Baker, in his dual guise as washroom assistant and dauphin of France, provides a generous supply of bland lunacy, and also intermittently serves Mr. Lahr well as straight man. The rest of the people listed at the head of this column are the sort of folks who usually inhabit musical comedies, fulfilling their duties unobtrusively and well enough not to cause adverse comment.

"Du Barry Was a Lady" is an excellent show, make no mistake. You must not go to it if you blush too easily. Nor must you expect it to be another "I Married an Angel," for apparently no musical comedy is ever going to be as good as that again.

"DU BARRY WAS A LADY."

The Odor of Violets

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Chell Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband Paul Gerente, and stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Gerente with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch, Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron, who lives below Paul, in the apartment with the dead man. Cameron confesses to the murder, claiming a girl, Hilda Lestrade, witnessed it. Norma longs to ask the advice of Bunny Carter, head of the aircraft works where her stepson, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, but she does not dare for fear of implicating Barbara in a murder. Barbara disappears. In Gilbert's workroom some one pushes a wardrobe on Norma. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder and the bombing sight Gilbert Tredwill has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwill home with his two seeing-eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers the plans for the bombing sight have been traced and learns from Norma that she thought Bella was hiding behind the wardrobe. Later Bella is found dead with her head cut off. Norma confesses everything she knows to Maclain. Maclain, who came upon the odor of violets in Gerente's apartment, finds it again about Bella, comes to the conclusion that violet perfume is a trademark of the Nazi spy system, but thinks Bella was killed because she was pretending to work for the Nazis while she was really working for the intelligence service. Maclain questions Bunny Carter and with him drives out to the aviation plant where he hears the accent of the fake Paul Gerente, who visited him the night of Paul's murder. It belongs to Louis Madoc, a foreman at the factory. A perfume ad is mailed to Norma from the House of Bonnee and Maclain pockets it, sure it is a message in code.

DAILY SERIAL DEC 23—

INSTALMENT XXXI.

LABORATORY WORK.

For 30 minutes after Bunny had recorded the letter from the perfume house the captain had sat in the seclusion of the president's office with headphones clamped to his ears playing the record repetitiously thru and thru.

Once or twice, Bunny had looked in from his secretary's office where he was watching Miss Tavestock cut the stencil with conscientious accuracy. Each time the captain's head had raised alertly and one of his expressive hands had motioned Bunny impatiently away.

"What do you make of it?" Bunny had asked when he returned carrying the stencil and the original letter. "It looks like an ordinary enough circular to me."

"That's the beauty of it," said Maclain. "That's the beauty of everything we're dealing with. It looks so ordinary that even the most alert investigator is likely to glance at it but once, and then turn away."

Bunny asked him, "What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to take this record, the letter, and the stencil to Middletown, if you'll lend me a brief case to carry them in. That is, if you don't mind me using your car."

"Not at all," said Bunny immediately, "but why Middletown? What do you expect to find there?"

"A state police laboratory." The captain carefully put the letters and the record into the brief case and snapped it shut. "Sometimes there's more writing on a piece of paper than appears on the surface. Police laboratories have curious means of bringing it to light with chemicals and ultraviolet rays."

Word by word, the captain mentally sifted the contents of the letter as Bunny drove him on his way. There weren't more than 120 words on the single sheet of fine bond typewriter paper embossed with the heading:

"The House of Bonnee"
Tanner Building
East 57th Street
New York City

The words were simple, carrying no hint of espionage or intrigue, carrying nothing except some advertising man's conception of an angle which might induce a recipient of the letter to buy the products of the House of Bonnee.

The captain gave it up after a while and relaxed in a corner of the car. He remained motionless, head back, with his fingertips pressed gently against his eyes, until he sensed by the sound of the car that they were crossing the long bridge leading into Middletown. Then he sat up and grasped the handle of the brief case beside him. There were still many things he couldn't understand. One of them was why that lingering scent of violets should be in Bunny Carter's car.

* * *

Dr. Jellicoe, a neat, precise man in his early fifties, tapped the edge of his pince-nez against his teeth and stared across his desk at Schnucke and Duncan Maclain.

"You think there's a message of some kind written on this piece of paper in invisible ink, Captain?" The doctor replaced his pince-nez and stared down once more at the letter in his hand.

"I haven't any idea," said Maclain, "but it's something I'd like very much to know."

"It's a type of work that's a little outside of my field." Dr. Jellicoe's unlined forehead was momentarily marred with a tiny frown. "I've used iodine fumes for bringing out latent finger-prints, and I believe there's a process with a combination of sodium nitrate and silver nitrate solution that's very effective."

"Two solutions in the latter method, to be exact," said Maclain. "It's what they call a sulphate picture. After the sodium nitrate and the silver nitrate you'd have to use formalin and sodium hydroxide, but I'm afraid it won't do. It's apt to destroy the visible writing which I want to keep particularly."

Dr. Jellicoe checked a question and said, "You might make a copy." The captain smiled. "I'm afraid that wouldn't do much good either. You see, I want to throw this letter away."

"Yes, certainly," Dr. Jellicoe agreed a shade too quickly. He began to wonder if Duncan Maclain knew that he was an accredited member of the staff of the Connecticut State Hospital for the Insane.

The captain continued. "That may sound funny to you, Doctor, but I want to see who finds it."

"O, yes," said Dr. Jellicoe, studying a button on the desk by his side and wondering if an attendant was near. "Yes, I have that same urge at times, myself. I think it exists in every one in a greater or lesser degree."

"Pardon me?" said Maclain.

"O, think nothing of it," said Dr. Jellicoe. "There was some writing you wanted to see?"

"That's it!" The captain felt himself slipping. "Suppose we try the ultraviolet ray."

The doctor took off his pince-nez again and looked with twinkling eyes at Maclain. There were flashes when he almost thought that this blind man was really sane. He had letters from the commissioner of state police and Col. Gray of G-2. At least those documents seemed to be in order.

Dr. Jellicoe shrugged his shoulders and said, "Well, it might be a good idea at that. Come along with me."

He started to place a hand on the captain's arm, but abandoned the idea precipitantly as Schnucke with gentle firmness nosed him out of the way. Instead, he took a position safely in front and led the way to a darkroom farther down the hall.

Once inside he hesitated a moment before closing the door. Then his years of practice came to his rescue. Duncan Maclain was powerful, but he was blind, and the agile little doctor had gotten himself out of plenty of tight spots before.

He switched on a quartz lamp filled with mercury gas, seated the captain in a chair, and searched around until he found a light filter.

"I'm going to test it with nickel oxide glass," the doctor explained, keeping a wary eye on Maclain. "It lets thru rays of about 3,650 Angstron units."

"Yes," said Maclain placidly. "At least both of us are on an equal basis. Thirty-six hundred and fifty Angstron units are something that neither of us can see. I believe that 4,000 Angstrons are the least that are visible to the human eye."

"That's right," said Dr. Jellicoe. He felt a little easier. The blind man seemed to know what he was talking about after all.

He held the paper up in front of the filter for quite a while, then turned it so that the rays would strike the other side. "It's almost certain," he said, "that any invisible ink would show up luminescence in the ultraviolet ray."

He clucked disparagingly. "I'm afraid there's nothing here at all."

"I didn't think there would be," said Duncan Maclain. "I guess I'll just have to throw it away."

"By all means." Dr. Jellicoe switched on overhead lights and turned out the quartz lamp. He had reached the stage where he acted automatically when he restored the letter to Maclain's outstretched hand.

The captain turned and unhesitatingly found the door knob. "Thank you so much, Doctor," he said cordially as he stepped out into the hall.

The doctor stood in the doorway and watched the captain and his canine guide stride confidently away. Suddenly he reached a momentous decision. He put out the lights in the dark room, closed the door, and almost scurried down the hall. In his office he sat down beside his desk and said, "Hell, I need a drink. This working around in an insane asylum is beginning to get me."

Universal day—Get all the routine work out of the way today so tomorrow will be free for the unexpected.

January—For those facing a four-year for 1941, the month of January will start off with less emphasis on the hard work which is coming than you might expect, because January will be a five-month for this group. Possibly a little trip or some entertainment will start the year off on a note of pleasure, but don't be fooled into thinking it will last. The responsibilities and duties to be fulfilled will come along later, so make the most of the bright spots and the quick changes you can make before the down-to-earth vibrations of the year get hold of you. Shine in the light of publicity before you have to sit back in obscurity for a few months.

A frozen dessert has more appeal after Christmas dinner than does almost any other, for those at the festive board have done so well by the turkey and trimmings that they haven't room for anything but a dessert which seems to melt away into nothingness, leaving only a chilly, refreshing flavor.

Sherbets and ices are lighter weight desserts than ice creams and mousses, and certainly couldn't be turned down by even a gluttonous partaker of the dinner course. There are many delicious, commercially prepared ones available to take a little more work out of the dinner—getting process. Serve orange, lemon, strawberry, pineapple, mint, or another flavor with tiny butter cookies, wafers, or thin, small slices of fruit cake.

You can prepare an attractive combination of ices, sherbets, or ice creams, choosing your favorite colors and flavors and packing them in layers in your refrigerator trays so that, when scooped out, each serving contains a portion of, say, raspberry sherbet, vanilla ice cream, and orange ice.

And, if you'd like to make your own, how about one of these recipes?

Loganberry Sherbet.
[Serves Six.]
1 cup loganberry juice
1 teaspoon lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 cup sugar
1 quart milk

Mix juices, rind, and sugar and heat gently to dissolve sugar. Add gelatin soaked in the cold water for 5 minutes and stir to dissolve. Do not let juices boil. Chill and add milk. Freeze in refrigerator tray until nearly solid. Remove to a chilled bowl and whip until light. Freeze until firm.

Orange Ice.
[Serves Eight.]
2 cups sugar
4 cups water
2 cups orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice
Grated rind of 2 oranges

Boil sugar and water for 20 minutes. Cool and add remaining ingredients. Freeze in refrigerator tray, stirring frequently.

And for other delicious frozen desserts see "Refrigerator Ice Creams," a booklet which may be obtained for 3 cents at either of the Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune Tower lobby or 1 South Dearborn street. It will be mailed upon receipt of 5 cents in stamps.

'Grapes of Wrath' Called Most Artistic, Important 1940 Film

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures today selected "The Grapes of Wrath" as the best 1940 film on the basis of artistic merit and importance.

The movie was adapted from John Steinbeck's novel dealing with problems growing out of the migration of "okies" to California.

Choosing the "ten best American films" of the current year, the board ranked its choice in this order:

"The Grapes of Wrath," "The Great Dictator," "Of Mice and Men," "Our Town," "Fantasia," "The Long Voyage Home," "Foreign Correspondent," "The Biscuit Eater," "Gone With the Wind," and "Rebecca."

Good Morning!

And little Audrey just—cried and cried and cried . . .! [Little Blondie, rather.]

This time the naïve trio featured in the Blondie series run away from Fourth of July dangers to find themselves confronted by assorted perils which make possible firecrackery accidents seem as but gently disappearing vapor. . . .

The getting away from it all is Mamma Blondie's idea. . . . Hubby Dagwood and Baby Dumpling want to enjoy a good old menacing FOURTH and Dagwood has smuggled fireworks into the house. . . . Baby Dumpling, accessory after the fact [is that what the lawyers call it?], means to keep the secret but his inexperience in ways dark and devious interfere with his Machiavellian intentions and Blondie finds the loot. . . . WELL!

She packs the three of them AND Dog Daisy, off to Aunt Hannah's—in the country. . . . From here on the plot thickens with a vengeance. . . . The conductor discovers that the thing in swaddling clothes is no baby but a dog and acts accordingly. . . . An angry father with a shotgun horns in when the Blondie bunch horn in on an elopement. Then, there's an automobile with eccentric insides. . . . The peaceful Fourth planned by Blondie proves anything BUT. . . . AND Little Blondie cries, and cries, and cries. . . .

BUT, O, dear, everybody is so earnest and DOES work so hard! Also the action DOES move pretty fast. Allinall—

[You can stand it.]

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 22.—Sunday: Last night's gathering at E. Selwyn's was rare for Hollywood because nobody talked movies. All talked theater instead and quite a lot of fascinating theater was on hand. The host and his brother, Arch; Al Woods, looking little different from the way he did in his Eltinge theater office before the Wall street crash; Charlotte Greenwood, who sang "So Long, Letty" and some new songs by her husband, Martin Broones, who accompanied her; J. P. and Peggy McEvoy, and John Krimsky. . . . Up early, with pleasant memories and no hangover from the night before, and a column done before noon.

Monday: A miserable rainy day for a little belated Christmas shopping and miserable enough, too, for some letter writing. In the early evening to our young lady's school, which is having open house for parents, and many movie folk are there to see what their darlings' class books are like. And so to see David Hempstead's and Sam Wood's "Kitty Foyle," a really excellent picture.

Tuesday: A day of work, and to a birthday dinner for a lovely lady, and to the preview of "Love Thy Neighbor."

Wednesday: To the Warner studio, to talk with Mike Curtiz and E. G. Robinson and watch them do a couple of scenes from "The Sea Wolf." The set for the interiors in "The Ghost" is a marvel of make believe. The scenes are brief ones in which Robinson is going blind and half crazy. Because of rehearsals, repeated takes, and the clutter of lights and crew, you rarely have a sense of the dramatic while watching a movie being made. But here, somehow, it arouses interest the way the picture itself would. Maybe it's because Robinson is a thoro and unarty actor. . . . In the evening to catch "Santa Fe Trail" in a projection room and Reginald Gardiner and J. Weissmuller there. It's a good, semihistorical and sufficiently hysterical action picture, highlighted by a fine performance by Raymond Massey of the fanatically exalted John Brown.

Thursday: To Metro, for a call on Robert Montgomery, who's doing a drama called "Rage in Heaven." Bob is having trouble with a foot which he injured during his ambulance service in France. After watching Ingrid Bergman and Lucile Watson do a scene for the picture, I hike over to the "Ziegfeld Girl" stage, and on the way fall in with Hedy Lamarr, who is on her way to work in slacks. The set is now the New Amsterdam theater, and shortly Miss Lamarr appears in an evening gown in one of the boxes.

Friday: To Lakeside, where George Murphy says he wants to buy a farm in Oregon, where there are some trees and some seasons, and he tells of a friend who proudly drove a visitor up Coldwater canyon for the view. The visitor was unimpressed. "We got hills just like these in Maine—with trees on 'em," he said.

Saturday: To the Fox lot to talk with Stash Clements, 12 year old child of the Brooklyn subways and sidewalks, and he is utterly fascinating. More on Stash later. Lunch with John Larkin, whose fifth Charlie Chan scenario is now in production. It's the 25th in the Chan series. It involves a parrot—and the parrot has a stand-in! The stand-in talks, but the other doesn't.

Made from Yard of Fabric

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRON AND SKIRT.

The principal feature of both patterns today is that they may be created from a yard of fabric, which means plenty of extra pennies jingling in the pockets when the items are finished. One always needs an extra skirt for those orphaned sweaters and blouses, and doesn't want to spend a great deal on the project. And an apron is a household item of which one never has enough.

Style No. 3490 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. One yard for any size; 2 yards of ruffling.

Style No. 3454 is designed for waist sizes 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, and 36. Size 30 requires 1¼ yards of 54 inch material for button-front skirt; seamed version requires 1 yard of 54 inch any size.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Miss Wyman will wear a bouffant white tulle gown with a white satin bodice and red camellias. The Perry Kenlys have planned a dinner for Miss Wyman before the Yale Glee club concert on Christmas night.

Cocktail Party Today for Evelyn Gardner.

The Morris K. Wilsons' cocktail party today will help to launch the holiday festivities of Miss Evelyn Gardner, who arrived on Saturday afternoon from Connecticut college. The debutante is the daughter of the Henry A. Gardners of Winnetka, and her ball on Saturday night at the Blackstone will be a highlight of the Christmas season.

Not to be outdone by their older sisters, the subdebutantes, too, are having a whiri of parties. Tonight Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody will entertain at a dinner-dance at the Racquet club for Miss Nancy Fulton and Miss Nancy Cochran, who are at home from school for the holidays. Miss Fulton, the daughter of Mrs. Darrow Bruce Fulton, studies at St. Timothy's school, and the John L. Cochrans' daughter is a student at Miss Walker's school. Mrs. Cochran will receive with Mrs. Peabody.

The young people of the Dinner-Dance club are to have an old-fashioned waltz contest tonight to enliven their Christmas party to be held at the Saddle and Cycle club. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Faherty, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis and the Walter Howells will be the hosts.

Families to Assemble at Christmas Parties.

While Christmas day may not find Chicago decorated with snow, all the trimmings of good old-fashioned family parties will be in order. Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr., who has viewed the world from a hospital bed installed in her living room most of this fall, has her doctor's permission to be up and out for two hours a day now. Her two hours on Christmas day will be spent at a family dinner at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield.

The goose will hang high at the John Alden Carpenters' home on Lake Shore drive, too. Mr. and Mrs. Adlai Stevenson and their brood of three will come in from Libertyville and Mrs. Robert S. Pirie and her two from Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ives [she is Mr. Stevenson's sister] of New York arrived yesterday to be the house guest of the Carpenters during the holidays.

"The Whiffenpoofs assembled" will have dinner on Christmas night not at "the tables down at Mory's" [to quote their famous Yale theme song], but in the home of the Theodore B. Counselmans of Evanston. The party replaces a debut for their daughter, Eleanor, and the presence of the renowned Yale brotherhood of songsters was easily arranged, as Miss Counselman's brother, Gardner, is Chicago's only representative this year among the Whiffenpoofs.

After an early dinner the party will go on to Orchestra hall—the Whiffenpoofs to appear in the Yale Glee club concert and their "dates" to listen.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 hearts	3 clubs	4 hearts
4 spades	Pass	Pass	5 hearts
Pass	Pass	5 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

As may be seen, both North and South bid vigorously, to say the least, South's voluntary spade rebid over the four hearts being particularly questionable. Nevertheless, perfect handling of his resources would have led declarer to victory.

West opened the heart ace, which dummy ruffed. Declarer saw that he would have to lose two club tricks and at least one diamond, unless the latter could be discarded on one of dummy's established clubs. He felt that the best way to go about club establishment was to lead up to the Q—10—9, hoping to find the jack in West's hand, but he completely lost sight of the fact that entering his own hand would cost him an invaluable time unit.

He led to the diamond king, and returned a club to dummy's nine, West playing low. East won with the jack, and promptly laid down the diamond queen, forcing out dummy's ace. On the subsequent club lead by declarer, West had merely to cash the diamond jack for the setting trick.

Here was a case in which declarer should have sacrificed the idea of leading up to honor combinations for the more important factor of saving time. After ruffing the first heart in dummy, the only propitious play was to lead a club from the dummy's long suit. Against this play there could be no successful defense. East, on winning the trick, could not return a diamond without sacrificing his side's diamond trick. A trump return would merely permit the lead of a second club by declarer and the sure establishment of the suit. A heart return would be ruffed in dummy, a second club led, the dummy's two remaining entries, the diamond ace and spade queen, would insure that the club suit could, first, be ruffed out and later reached for cashing.

It would have been equally fatal for declarer to have returned to his hand with a trump in order to lead up to the clubs, because in that event East would win and lead another trump. Then, on winning the second club lead, the defenders could cash a heart for the setting trick.

He said: "A sucker is born every minute."

I think people aren't suckers — even in buying their entertainment. With this in mind I have created the Theatre-Cafe, offering a glamorous musical production, good food and drinks, and dancing to name bands at an unprecedented low price.

Now, maybe people don't want value for their money in entertainment. I propose to find out. Thus, the Theatre-Cafe will be an experiment by which we'll prove whether or not Barnum was right.

In the Theatre-Cafe I offer for a single 50 cent admission charge (plus 5 cents tax) the following:

1. Hassard Short's "Gay New Orleans," including original principals with Ruby Mercer, which played to 2,500,000 persons at the New York World's Fair and was acclaimed by critics a new high in musical production.
2. In addition, Willie West & McGinty, comedy hit of the Aquacade.
3. A. Robins, novelty hit of "Jumbo."
4. Rola Rola, sensational hit of Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus.
5. Two name dance bands (Jack Denny and Johnny Gilbert).
6. Show conducted by Jay Freeman.
7. ALL THIS — AND GYPSY ROSE LEE, TOO!
8. Complete dinners from 75 cents, champagne cocktails and other beverages 25 cents and every price on the premises consistent with this policy (15 cent cigarettes will be 15 cents)

This array of entertainment I propose to offer in an atmosphere of real American congeniality. There will be no "special location" fees. First come, first served — even by reservation — and your 50 cents buys the best seat available in the house at the time.

I cordially invite you to come and judge for yourself Friday night, December 27 — and, I hope, every night thereafter.

Sincerely yours,
Michael Todd

P. S. Two shows nightly: 8 and 12. Saturday, three shows: 8, 12, and 2. Sunday, three shows: 5, 8, and 12. New Year's Eve, two shows, admission $1 including favors. No increase in other prices.

WHEN you look back at the Christmases of your childhood, what do you remember most vividly . . . most happily? Isn't it the tremendous trifles—things that meant so little to grown-ups, so much to you? Many of us remember the Christmas pudding, or the special way Mother had of decorating the Christmas tree. And so this week I bring you several suggestions for festive foods which I hope may become festive memories.

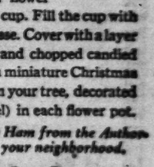
TENDER MADE HAM WITH "BELLS ON"

Easy to make. Happily remembered.

Have ham at room temperature. Heat it in a moderate oven (350 degrees), only 5 minutes per pound. Remove from oven and take off skin. Spread ham thickly with cranberry jelly and decorate it with "bells" made from pears. (See directions below.) Return to oven (450 degrees) for 20 minutes, basting frequently with the jelly. Remember only Wilson & Co. makes Tender Made Ham.

HOW TO MAKE PEAR "BELLS"



Use canned pears. Cut a slice from the bottom of each pear half, to make it resemble a bell. Place five or six of the pear "bells," cut side down, on top of the ham. Connect the "bells" with a "ribbon" made of angelique or citron. Use candied cherries for the "clappers." Baste the remainder of the pear bells with currant jelly and serve them around the ham.

If you prefer a delicious smoked ham that requires baking, specify Wilson's Certified SMOKED Ham. To be cooked 16 minutes per pound.

Open your mouth ...And shut your eyes...And enjoy this tempting breakfast surprise

To get them to the table on time Christmas morning, make this iron-clad rule: "No gifts can be opened before breakfast." Use the spicy fragrance of Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage, sizzling in the pan, to bring them running.

Christmas Tree Dessert

Order from your florist the same number of small 3-inch clay flower pots as you wish individual deserts. Line each flower pot with a paper cup. Fill the cup with ice cream or mousse. Cover with a layer of chopped nuts and chopped candied cherries. Insert a miniature Christmas tree (clipped from your tree, decorated with bits of tinsel) in each flower pot.

Buy Tender Made Ham from the Authorized Dealer in your neighborhood.

APPENDICITIS STRIKES HALAS; OPERATED UPON

Condition of Bear Coach Is Good.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 22 [Special].—George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears professional football team, champions of the National league, was operated on tonight for appendicitis in St. Vincent's hospital. Halas was first taken ill Thursday en route to this city with his team which is scheduled to play an All-Star professional squad chosen from the other nine league teams here next Sunday.

George Halas.

On arrival here Halas was immediately taken to the hospital. After consultation and diagnosis Dr. Verne Hunt performed the appendectomy.

Halas' Condition Good.

Halas' condition was reported as very good in the hospital bulletin issued tonight by Dr. Louis C. Bennett, an attending physician.

At the hospital with him were Mrs. Halas, his daughter, Virginia, 17 years old, a student at Drexel college in Philadelphia, and his son, George Jr., 15 years old, who made the trip with the Bears.

Before agreeing to submit to the operation, Halas said, "Well, anyhow, I'll be able to see Stanford play Nebraska in the Rose bowl on New Year's day." Halas and Clark Shaughnessy, new coach at Stanford, are close friends and exponents of the famous T formation in football.

However, the doctors said after the operation that Halas probably will be in the hospital ten days or two weeks.

Notify Anderson in Detroit.

Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, former Notre Dame coach and football lineman who played with the Bears a score of years ago and now is Halas' assistant coach, was notified in Detroit of Halas' operation. Anderson made plans to leave immediately to take charge of the Bears. Luke Johnsos, end coach, who is here with the team, will assist Anderson.

The Bears won the right to play in the All-Star game here by virtue of their 73 to 0 victory over the Washington Redskins in the playoff between the east and west divisions of the National league. It was the Bears' first league championship since 1933.

The Bears' game with the All-Star pros will be the last for the Chicago team until it meets the College All-Americans in the seventh annual game sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., to be played in Soldiers' field, Chicago, next August.

Bruins Beaten by Hammond Five, 41 to 33

The Chicago Bruins lost their first National Basketball league game of the season yesterday afternoon when they were beaten, 41 to 33, by Hammond in the Hammond Civic center. It was Hammond's second victory in eight games, while the Bruins had previously won both their league starts.

Ralph Vaughn, former Southern California star, and Dan Hutchins, formerly of Bradley Tech, led the Hammond team to victory with 19 and 12 points, respectively. Vaughn's seven field goals and five free throws put him at the top of the league's individual scorers with 91 points. Mike Novak paced the Bruins with four field goals and a free throw.

The Bruins were never ahead and were even only once, drawing up to 18 to 18 shortly before the first half ended, Hammond leading at the half, 22 to 18. The teams will play a return game in the 132d Armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, Wednesday night. Lineups:

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 22 (AP).—Lou Trudel slammed home four goals tonight as the New Haven Eagles trounced Pittsburgh, 9 to 2, in an American League hockey game.

The victory was New Haven's fifth straight, and put the club again in a tie with Springfield for leadership of the eastern division.

Trudel collected two goals in the first period, the third in 32 seconds of the second, and scored the fourth in the final session. He also collected two assists.

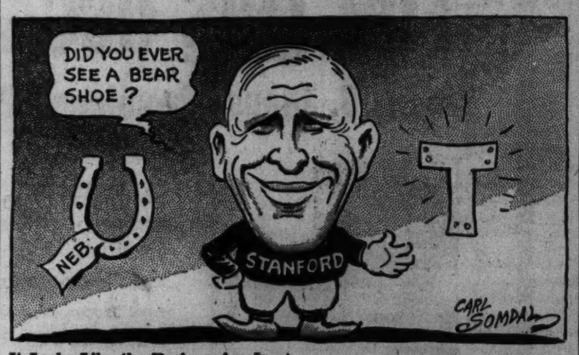
In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

NEWSPAPERS in most major league cities are said to have reached a new high in displeasure with the lack of coöperation baseball officials showed this month in handling of news at the conventions in Atlanta and Chicago. . . . Dissatisfaction started with the phony announcements in Atlanta by the Giants on the signing of Gabby Hartnett and the White Sox-Red Sox mixup over a Mike Kreevich-Roger Cramer trade which never materialized. . . . But the payoff was the seven-player deal involving Cleveland, Boston, and Washington which was announced in Cleveland the day after the Chicago convention closed. . . . Newspapers, telegraph companies, and press services go to great expense to cover the winter meetings, which palpably are a bid for baseball publicity immediately on the close of the football season. . . . They do not rate the shoddy push-arounds they received this winter. . . . Silent treatment one of these years might work a wondrous cure. . . . Washington High school of South Bend is doing all right by Notre Dame in the matter of varsity football men. . . . Joe Laiber, right guard; Steve Bagarus, right half back, and Johnny Kovatch, right end, of the 1940 Irish eleven are Washington alumni. . . . Irvin Wroblewski, star freshman half back, also is a Washington alumnus, and Ed Talboom, the high school's all-round left half back, will matriculate at Notre Dame next September. . . . Members of the Newark baseball club received only $350 each for winning the little world series.

The full name of Marquette U.'s basketball center is Charles Patrick Michael Rogers. . . . The boys call him Butch. . . . Cub players will be able to keep their Hollywood radio appointments with greater ease and luxury than ever before during their stay on Catalina Island next February and March. . . . P. K. Wrigley has under construction two $80,000 Lockheed land planes which will ply between Catalina's new $500,000 airport and the Los Angeles field in Burbank. . . . Heretofore air communication has been by flying boat to the Wilmington docks, 30 miles from Hollywood, and no service whatever when the sea was choppy or the fog soupy. . . . Joe McCarthy used to manage prize fighters and still knows more about the ring than 'most any one else in baseball. . . . Lou Boudreau, the Indians' young shortstop, has regained 12 of the 14 pounds he lost following a post-season appendectomy. . . . Outfielder Johnny Cooney joined the Boston National league club in 1921, the year Sebastian Sisti, the Bees' infielder, was born. . . . At the age of 45, Ephraim Colledge, the White Sox clubhouse boss, who is better known as "Sharkey," has deserted the bachelor ranks. . . . Sharkey started with the Sox at their old 39th street park in 1907 and hasn't been away since except for the world war years when he served as a machine gunner. . . . Eddie Jankowski, Green Bay full back, has offered a reward for the return of a watch he received for helping the Packers win the world championship in 1939. . . . The watch was taken from the luggage in Ed's car while he was hoofing it down a country road in search of a team of horses to drag the machine out of a ditch.



It Looks Like the Huskers Are In.

One of my friends gave me a copy of the Wake of the News in which you mentioned the huge horseshoe which hangs by the door of the Nebraska dressing room. It just happens that I am the fellow who made it and our boys [the Huskers] think it helped them thru a fine season and into the Rose bowl. And now for some statistics: It was made from a 33-inch bar of cold rolled steel and measures 19¾ inches from toe to heel. If our boys win from Stanford in the Rose bowl, I'll make them a horseshoe that is a shoe. It will be bigger than the stadium and I'll have it filled with fresh roses.

—Mart DoRan, Lincoln [Neb.] Blacksmith.

Elizabeth Remembers.

The child leapt in my womb
The day that Mary came,
And all the sullen gloom
Was shot with flame.

Her eyes were deeper far
Than silent pools at night,
And in their depths a star
Flashed sudden light.

Yet Mary knew that day,
The while she talked with me,
That wicked hands would slay
My progeny.

And even as she smiled
She felt her own great loss,
Seeing her only Child
Upon the cross. —T. E. B.

Souvenirs.

[Editor's note—This is an author's reaction to the demand for her book of poems—"Souvenirs of 1940."]

The letters that have come to me
Requesting "Souvenirs,"
Have been a thrill and a great surprise
That daily reappears.
From shut-ins, and the old and young,
From doctors—lawyers, too,
Musicians—bankers—teachers—O,
What varied work they do.
From north and south—and east and west
The messages are sent,
And those who write will never know
How very much they've meant.
I cannot answer all of them
So this I humbly say,
Accept my thanks and gratitude
For kindness strewn my way.

This Changing World.

Edward and I, visiting our Friend Joe and his wife, sat by while their little daughter was told that if she wasn't a better girl, the bogey man would get her.

After the little one had been removed, I remarked to Edward that I couldn't understand why people told their children about the bogey man.

"O, I don't know," said Edward, tolerantly. "Didn't your folks tell you that when you were little?"

"Absolutely not!" I exclaimed indignantly. "I'll have you know that I was raised in a Christian home—I was always hot-footing it away from the devil."

9 p. m.—Joliet vs. Fenwick.

Central Catholic of Joliet and Fenwick of Oak Park emerged triumphant from the semi-finals of the annual holiday basketball tournament in St. George gymnasium in Evanston last night and will meet tonight for the title. Fenwick, the 1939 champion, defeated Mount Carmel in a thriller, 30 to 28, and Joliet won over Loyola academy, 33 to 25.

Loyola academy and Mount Carmel will fight it out for the tournament's third place trophy in a preliminary game to the Fenwick-Joliet clash. The evening's events also will include presentation of the trophy annually awarded to the player of most value to his team.

Murphy Scores 21 Points.

Loyola gave the Joliet quintet a battle thruout and trailed by only two points at the half, 16 to 14. The victors were paced by the spectacular scoring of Bob Murphy, forward, who gathered 21 points on eight baskets and five free throws. Charles Kemen, Loyola forward, was high scorer for his team with 11 points on four baskets and three free throws.

Murphy was the outstanding player on the floor in the game. He scored four of his team's five points in the first period. Loyola was held scoreless in the first period, but accurate pitching by Kemen and Center Maury Nealy gave Loyola the lead, 14 to 11, late in the second period.

Lead Changes 5 Times.

Fenwick was forced to battle all the way to earn its victory over Mount Carmel. The score was tied at the quarter, 8 to 8; at the half, 15 to 15, and at the end of the third period, 21 to 21. The lead changed five times during the game.

Bill Doherty, big Fenwick guard, proved the difference between victory and defeat, scoring five of his team's seven points in an exciting fourth quarter. He had kept the Friars in the game in the first period, getting four of his team's eight points. Jack Kempfer and red haired David Wilson stood out for Mount Carmel.

HERBERT HOOVER LENDS A HAND TO ROSE BOWL FANS

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 22 (AP).—Herbert Hoover came thru in a pinch, and that's why Ruth Henderson, 23 years old, and Roberta Morton, 26, had tickets today for the Nebraska-Stanford football game in the Rose bowl.

They sent a telegram to the former President and Stanford alumnus, asking his help, when they couldn't get tickets in Nebraska. Mr. Hoover's secretary advised them to get in touch with the Nebraska alumni representative on the Pacific coast, but added the girls would be kept in mind just in case. The secretary pointed out Mr. Hoover had a block of tickets for his family and close friends.

The alumni representative couldn't deliver, so the girls sent another appeal to Mr. Hoover. Came a reply that two tickets would be saved for them, presumably from Mr. Hoover's reserved supply.

Connie Mack Is 78 Years Old Today; Says He'll Never Retire

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—Connie Mack, who likes to keep a-going, will celebrate his 78th birthday anniversary tomorrow with thoughts of retirement, ever further from his mind.

Mack has no special plans for tomorrow. It will be just a quiet day.

A legendary figure to thousands of youngsters and fans all over the country, baseball's grand old gentleman declares he never will quit as active manager and president of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I'm going to last as long as I can," explains the tall, lean former catcher who soon will be starting his 57th year in baseball altho his life was despaired of when he became seriously ill during the summer of 1939.

He's Never Going to Retire.

"Sometimes," he says, "the boys have put words in my mouth—that I will retire after winning another pennant or when I reach 80, but I'm never going to retire."

Born Cornelius McGillicuddy in 1862, the Old Man—as he is affectionately called by his players and employés—has become synonymous with the best in baseball.

Back in the best of health and looking better than he has in years, Mack travels daily to his tower office in Shibe park where he constantly amazes his associates by keeping up a pace that would tire many a younger man.

Carrying a thermos bottle filled with soup, Mack usually arrives in Shibe park about 9:30 a. m. He puts in six or seven hours daily, six days a week, answering his mail, talking with visitors and sometimes making a luncheon speech. He usually spends a quiet evening at his Germantown home and retires early.

It's an exciting life to Connie and he is looking ahead with enthusiasm toward the day when perhaps he will have another team to match his champion clubs of 1910-'14 and 1929-'31 eras.

He declares he is going to be disappointed again in 1941, tho.

Thought He'd Have a Chance.

"I thought we would have a chance next year," he explained. "But we're not going to be up there. It's the pitching. I'm satisfied with the team except for the pitching and shortstop. It's taking longer than I thought to develop good pitching."

Altho he saw something in the 1939 world series that led him to predict the New York Yankees would finish third in 1940 [he hit it right on the nose, too] Mack isn't making a prediction about next year.

"I think Cleveland and the Yankees have good chances," he said. "But our league is pretty evenly balanced now, so anything can happen."

HARMON SENDS FOOTBALL HOOD TO HELP BRITAIN

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—The football blanket-hood worn by Tommy Harmon, Michigan's star half back, eventually will find its way to Britain to be used there by some war sufferer, it was disclosed here today.

Hoods and blankets used by many other football stars will be contributed to the British war relief thru the Bundles for Britain program, under a plan originated by Bob Porterfield, the Virginian who founded Abingdon's unique barter theatre.

Harmon wrote Porterfield: "I will be glad to offer what help I can toward the great cause in which you are interested, that is, the British war relief. "I am sending under separate cover the hood that I used during this past season. If it can help some poor soul over in England, I am sure he will get more comfort out of it than I will."

SNEAD DEFEATS CUBAN GOLFER IN $5,000 MATCH

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 22. — Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., one of the leading American professional golfers, today defeated Rufino Gonzalez, Cuba's champion, by five strokes in their 36 hole match over the Havana Country club course. Both turned in sub par golf, but Snead required only 137 strokes, seven under par, while Gonzalez took 142. The duel was marked by long, steady, and accurate drives.

The match was played to decide a $5,000 private wager by Thorwald Sanchez Batista, wealthy Cuban, and Thomas Shevlin, young New York sportsman. The bet was made as the result of a dispute over the ability of Gonzalez, who never had been beaten on his home course. Hundreds of Cubans made their own private side bets on the outcome after Snead's arrival to meet Gonzalez.

Hands Check to Winner.

Sanchez Batista smilingly handed Shevlin a check for $5,000 in American currency after the match. The Cuban said the money had been put up by himself and other admirers of Gonzalez.

Altho the match was an excellent exhibition of professional golf on the part of both players, Snead never was in any great danger from the less accurrate and shorter drives of his opponent. In the morning round Snead shot a 69 and in the afternoon a 68, four below par. Gonzalez's rounds were 71 and 71.

The morning round was played during a light rain. The soggy course was a handicap for Gonzalez because of the shorter carries of his drives. Playing conditions in the afternoon were almost perfect and the gallery of more than 1,000 that hung on every stroke was one of the largest ever to witness a professional golf match in Cuba.

Gets Eleven Birdies.

Snead was over par on only two holes on each round, and he made up for these lapses by shooting eleven birdies.

The Virginian forged to the front by a stroke with birdies on the eighth and ninth holes of the first round. He lost a stroke each on the 10th and 12th holes, but squared the match on the 13th and never was headed thru the rest of the battle. A birdie three on the 18th gave him a two-stroke lead and he virtually clinched the match with birdies on the first two holes of the second round. The cards:

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night again gave the world champion New York Rangers a sound thrashing at the game of hockey, scoring once in the third period and twice in overtime to ring up a thrilling 3 to 1 victory before 14,884 giddy customers in Chicago Stadium.

Except for a brief letdown in which the champions scored their lone goal late in the second period, the Hawks played frenzied hockey thruout and completely dazzled the New Yorkers for the second time this season, in which the outfits have played only the two games. The earlier blistering saw the Hawks conquerors, 4 to 1.

Trouncing Peeves Rangers.

The Hawks poured it on the proud visitors so relentlessly in the overtime period that some of the Rangers, showed they couldn't take it, notably Babe Pratt, one of the biggest men in hockey. He wickedly slashed little Doug Bentley across the back with his stick. For a time it appeared the tiny man had been seriously hurt, but he got up and, tho he played no more, he is not expected to suffer any lasting injury as a result of the attack.

When Neil Colville scored on an assist from Lynn Patrick in 17:06 of the second period to give the champions a 1 to 0 lead and apparently confuse the Hawks, it appeared the Chicagoans might topple from a third place tie to fifth, barely out of sixth on the basis of the final scores in games played elsewhere.

Max Bentley Ties Score.

But this state of affairs ended before the third period was half over. In 7:58 the Hawks tied the score on a goal by Max Bentley, assisted by Earl Seibert and Doug Bentley. The shot was so sharp that it not only beat Goalie Dave [Vezina] Kerr, but bent the stick of Otto Heller in the course of its short flight.

The rest of the period saw some of the most terrific hockey ever played in the Stadium, with hockey players diving great distances as often as they skated from here to there.

Despite the ferocity of play the regular portion of the game ended in a 1 to 1 tie, and the lads rested briefly for the 10 minute overtime period. For a couple of minutes of the extra session it appeared both sides were willing to take a tie, but it proved the Hawks were just playing possum.

Allen Gets Victory Goal.

After the three minute mark George Allen shouldered between Kilby MacDonald and Alf Pike, in the defense spots, for power play purposes. After George had waded thru, Mush March and Bill Carse gave him a lift with short passes. As soon as he regained his balance Allen retook the puck and drove it past Goalie Kerr for the victory counter.

March rang up the dramatic, the superfluous goal, in 6:53 of the overtime. Pratt had been locked up for his assault on Doug Bentley when Bill Carse moved the rubber into the champs' defense zone. He passed to March who had time to brace and give the shot all the momentum his stocky body could generate. Kerr didn't even see a blur as the puck whizzed past him into the nets.

Start Road Trip.

The stirring triumph continued the Hawks in third place, in a tie with the Boston Bruins. The tean. will play the Rangers again in New York Christmas night, the Canadiens the next night, and will stop off in Detroit before their next home game, against the Red Wings on New Year's night.

Murray Armstrong, American center, tipped in a rebound off Goalie Turk Broda's skate in the 15th minute of the third period to give the New Yorkers a victory and a draw in two games with the Leafs on successive nights.

Immediately before this home and home series the Americans had won and drawn with the Detroit Red Wings, thus taking 6 points out of a possible 8 in four games with the two top teams of the league.

Fred Thurier, the Americans' rookie star, missed both week-end games because of a knee injury. Lineups:

Sonja Henie Offers Tips on Figure Skating

Star Plays Hookey

THE cast of 88 skaters in the Sonja Henie 1941 Hollywood ice revue arrived at the La Salle street station last night, minus Miss Henie. Miss Henie, who is Mrs. Dan Topping, went to New York to join her husband for a few days, while the rest of the troupe came to Chicago for the Chicago Stadium engagement opening on Thursday night.

[Sonja Henie, three times Olympic games figure skating champion, movie queen and star of her Hollywood ice revue which opens in the Stadium Thursday night, gives tips on figure skating in this first of a series of excerpts taken from her recent book.]

BY SONJA HENIE.
[From "Wings on My Feet."]

I like to think of skating as the ideal sport for all people, because no matter what your age, skating has something to offer, from light exercise to a strenuous workout. You are boss. You may stop when you wish. And skating does not require costly equipment or special playing grounds as most sports do. A pair of skates and a sheet of ice bring to you all of skating's pleasures.

Many persons claim their ankles

are too weak for skating, but almost always the trouble is poorly fitting boots. You can buy cheap boots, but my advice is to spend more. The fit is important. The boots must not pinch the toes and must have proper counters for arch support. See that they snuggle around the ankles, and that the heel leather does not wrinkle. Skaters wear only light wool socks.

The rear stanchion of the figure skate must fit to one-quarter inch from back of the boot heel; the forward stanchion to the boot tip. Have a pro attach these blades.

Skating clothes are most becoming of all sports attire. Neatest outfit for men is a sweater and plus fours.

The dress for girls—shorts are not graceful—should have a close fitting bodice, and full, circular or gored skirt falling several inches above the knees. I recommend tights indoors and out because legs must be warm for good skating.

As a beginner you will find many advantages in joining a club, such as companions, reserved rink space, and instruction. It is important to take lessons periodically to correct faults every beginner unknowingly acquires.

Before we skate, a warning: Remember, if you have competitive ambition, that you must be prepared for a hard grind. There is no sport today requiring more concentrated, conscientious effort. Look on skating as recreation, tho, and your progress almost surely will be fast enough to please.

Mother of Godoy Dies as Boxer Rushes to Bedside

IQUIQUE, Chile, Dec. 22 (AP).—Señora Vicenta Godoy, 65, mother of the Chilean heavyweight fighter, Arturo Godoy, died today of a heart attack before her son, returning from the United States, could reach her bedside. He arrived at Arica Friday, intending to spend the Christmas and New Year holidays with his mother.

Bolden Seeks Revenge in Bout Tonight

Nate Bolden, middleweight contender of Chicago, expects to gain revenge for a previous defeat at the hands of George Burnette in a 10 round return bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. By so doing the 1937 Intercity Golden Gloves 160 pound winner would make it two victories out of three meetings with Burnette this year. Nate beat his Detroit rival in their first fight in White City on July 12.

Bolden's only defeat in his last nine matches was suffered at the hands of Burnette in a rematch in Detroit Nov. 1. In his last previous appearance, Nate conquered Tony Cisco two weeks ago. He scored a four round technical knockout over Henry Chmielewski in the Marigold arena Nov. 11.

Beckwith Meets Trotter.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald, who has been released from University hospital where last Tuesday he underwent two minor operations, will have a six round semi-final between Booker Beckwith, Gary light heavyweight, and Orlando Trotter. The contest originally was scheduled for Oct. 6, but Beckwith was unable to go thru with it because of illness. Trotter then defeated Billy Gillespie in St. Paul Oct. 9 and followed up this achievement with an eight round triumph over Clarence Brown Nov. 18.

Billy Pierce, Milwaukee welterweight who conquered Stanley Murczek a week ago, will return for a four round encounter against Tony Reno. Billy's brother, Jimmy, beat Reno on last week's card. Other matches of four rounds will bring together William Hawkins, former Catholic Youth organization bantamweight, and Richard Rigali, and Matt Milovich, Milwaukee lightweight, and Jimmy McCormick.

Show in Hammond Tonight.

Joe Ghnouly, St. Louis lightweight who earlier scored an upset victory over Willie Joyce, will return to action in a 10 round contest with Eddie Scott of Detroit in Hammond Civic center this evening. The show, which is sponsored by Hammond post No. 16, American legion, will include five other matches between boys who distinguished themselves on the opening program in the Civic center Dec. 8. George Dixon II., local junior lightweight, is paired with Bill Miller of Alliance, O., in a six round secondary feature.

Ralph [Ruffy] Silverstein, Ed White's heavyweight wrestling protége who was successful in throwing two opponents in one night on a previous occasion, will attempt the feat again tonight in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, when he faces Juan Humberto and the Irish Angel. He must accomplish the achievement within one hour. Supporting encounters will match Oki Shikina with Jim McMillen, Pete Baltran with Gene Bowman, Fred Grubmier with Bill Canny, and Walter Palmer with Dale Haddock.

LIST OF WINTER SKATE EVENTS TO BE CARDED TODAY

Plans for events to be presented during the coming speed skating season will be drawn up today by Racing Board Secretary Herb Knudsen and President Pete Miller of the Illinois Skating association. The schedule of each event's races will be mailed by Secretary Sid Novak.

First Derby of the season, set for next Sunday in Garfield park sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization, will inaugurate the new permanent numbering and no entry fee policy of the skate body. Leo Freisinger, national and North American champion, and Ann Vitaska, both of the C. Y. O., will be the defending champions of the class A men and girls in the C. Y. O. Derby.

The racing board officials will vary the events on each program so that skaters will gain ample experience and training at all distances before the national title Derbies are held late in January and early February.

ILLINOIS AND NOTRE DAME TO CLASH TONIGHT

Three Other Big 10 Fives to See Action.

Games Tonight

Illinois at Notre Dame.
Iowa at Michigan State.
Minnesota at Creighton.
Indiana at California.
Pittsburgh at Butler.
William and Mary at Bradley.
Yale at Washington U.
Oklahoma at Temple.

Notre Dame and Illinois start the collegiate holiday basketball parade moving when they clash tonight in South Bend in the 15th game of their court rivalry—the first of three contests the Illini play this week on a road trip that leads to New York and Philadelphia.

The Illini squad, beaten by Pittsburgh in an overtime battle Friday in Champaign, arrived in Chicago last night. Following luncheon at noon today in the Palmer House, Coach Douglas Mills and the squad will move to the Notre Dame campus. Only in 1926 have the Illini been able to win on the home floor of the Irish, altho Illinois leads the all-time series, eight victories to six.

Each Has New Center.

Each team has four veterans and a new center. Larry Ryan and Bob Smith, Irish guards, however, alternated with the first team last year. Frank Quinn, Indianapolis junior, will start at center for Notre Dame in place of Charles Butler, Chicago sophomore, who suffered a cut over his eye in Thursday's victory over Michigan.

Art Mathisen, 6 foot 5 inch sophomore from Dwight, Ill., will start at center for the Illini with four 1939-'40 regulars, including Vic Wukovits, guard from South Bend, and brother of Tommy Wukovits, former Notre Dame star.

Three Others Travel.

Three other Western conference teams play on the road tonight. Iowa, winner over the University of Detroit on a last minute goal Saturday night, 37 to 35, moves to East Lansing seeking its fifth straight victory at the expense of Michigan State. Indiana, which squeezed out a 60 to 59 overtime decision over Stanford in San Francisco on Saturday, resumes its Pacific coast invasion against California tonight. Minnesota, victor over Nebraska Saturday, 43 to 36, jumps from Lincoln, Neb., to Omaha to meet Creighton.

Northwestern, Chicago, Wisconsin and Purdue of the Big Ten are not scheduled this week. All other members of the conference, however, will be busy in intersectional combat. Illinois will oppose Manhattan college in New York Thursday night, defending a perfect record in two previous appearances in Madison Square Garden, and then will engage Temple in Philadelphia on Saturday. Minnesota will continue eastward to meet New York university in half of a double header in the Garden, which also pits Kansas against Fordham on Saturday. Michigan is paired with Pittsburgh and Ohio State with Princeton in a double header in Columbus, O., on Saturday.

Play Sugar Bowl Attraction.

Indiana, bidding for the globe trotting title, will play Southern California and U. C. L. A. on Friday and Saturday, respectively, in Los Angeles for their fourth Pacific Coast game in eight nights. Then the Hoosiers leave by airplane for Memphis, Tenn., and thence by rail to New Orleans to oppose Kentucky in a Sugar bowl carnival attraction next Monday.

Meantime, eastern teams will appear in the central states, Bradley Tech entertaining three of them. The Peorians play William and Mary tonight, Yale on Wednesday, and Cornell university on Friday to complete a strenuous home stand of six games in 14 days.

Yale starts a Christmas week stay in the midwest against Washington U. in St. Louis tonight. After its game at Bradley on Christmas night, Yale moves to Chicago to play in the second double header of the season in the Coliseum on Friday night. Loyola will oppose Yale, and De Paul will battle Butler in the second game.

Loyola will attempt to regain prestige lost in defeats at the hands of Georgetown and Purdue, the latter, 50 to 35, Saturday. De Paul will be seeking its seventh consecutive victory.

Pittsburgh, victorious over Wisconsin and Illinois last week but stopped by Northwestern Saturday, 48 to 25, plays Butler in Indianapolis tonight.

O'ROURKE WINS FOUR EVENTS IN MIDGET RACING

Cowboy O'Rourke of Chicago stole the show in the national indoor midget auto races in the International amphitheater last night. After setting the fastest qualifying time of the evening, O'Rourke won the 40 lap feature, the 15 lap handicap and one of the 15 lap eliminations for a sweep of the events in which he was entered.

Ray Richards of Highland Park took second in the feature with Tony Willman of Milwaukee third, Bob Muhlke of Kenilworth fourth, and Art Hartsfeld of Toledo, O., fifth. The time was 5:06.

Meli Wins Lincoln Park Trap Shoot Match with 49

Ralph Meli won the weekly trap shoot challenge cup event with score of 49 at Lincoln Park Gun club yesterday. The player winning the event three consecutive times will gain permanent possession. Last week the event was won by Albert Gallert. Meli also won the Christmas turkey shoot in a shoot off with J. L. Younghusband, 24 to 22. R. P. Proffit won in class A with 48; Harry Russell in class B with 47, and Mrs. P. D. Quinn in class C shoot off with F. M. Manning, 18 to 17.

U. of C. Opens 40 Team Prep Tourney Today

Eight of Chicago's 40 city high school basketball teams will appear in the Midway fieldhouse this afternoon in four games launching the University of Chicago's 23d annual holiday tournament. Austin High will play Phillips at 2 p. m. in defense of the championship won last year by the west siders.

Waller and Englewood are scheduled to meet at 1 p. m. before Austin commences its title defense. At 3 o'clock Von Steuben clashes with Medill, and the final contest of the day will be Morgan Park vs. Lindblom at 4 p. m. Four more games tomorrow afternoon will bring another eight teams into the tournament. No games will be played on Christmas day.

Because of the unusual size of the meeting, previously limited to 32 schools, not all teams will have played their first round games until Friday evening. The second round is slated for Saturday, the quarterfinals for Monday, the semi-finals New Year's eve and the final games on New Year's day.

Austin's chances of repeating last year's march to the title, are, according to tournament luck, rather slim since only one team, Lane, has won twice since the tournament was limited to Chicago area schools. Lane scored in 1933 and 1934, after Morton had won in 1931 and Downers Grove in 1932. Farragut was champion in 1935. In 1936, Calumet nosed out Austin in the finals. Parker was the winner in 1937, Crane in 1938, and last year Austin beat Wells for the title.

Altho eight teams more than in any previous year will compete this week, only two have never before been entered in the event Medill and South Shore. The six additional teams not in last year's meet were Morgan Park, Roosevelt, Bowen, Steinmetz, Fenger, and La'ge View.

CLAUDIA ECKERT LEAVES TONIGHT ON FLORIDA TRIP

Claudia Eckert, swimming and diving star of the Shawnee Country club, will leave tonight for the National Aquatic forum in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Claudia, who will be accompanied by her father, George Eckert, Shawnee coach, will lecture at the forum and will take part in exhibition swimming and diving shows.

North End Traveling League Pin Leaders Meet Tonight

The two leaders, Pepsi-Cola and Chapin & Gore, meet tonight in the North End Traveling league on the Milford alleys, 3315 Milwaukee avenue, at 7 o'clock. At the same time Fox De Luxe faces the Schambergers at the North Town recreation and the Birks bowl at De Luxe recreation. At 9 o'clock, the Koenigs oppose Samuelson's Kids at Stack and Ryan's and the Budweisers meet the Jolly Jacks at the Gold Coast.

There's a Story Behind Story of Texas Aggies

College Station, Tex., Dec. 22 (AP).—A bubbling, tousled kid of 135 pounds who stands on tip-toe to make his vagrant cowlick touch John Kimbrough's chin, is the real story behind the story of the Texas Aggie football team. Jimmie Parker is the hero.

Officially, Parker is listed as the student manager of the team. Actually, he mothers the brood of giants who play Fordham in the Dallas Cotton bowl on New Year's day.

"Greatest little fellow I ever knew," says Coach Homer Norton. "Don't know what we would do without him. After every game, with hundreds swarming on the field, I can just quietly say 'Jimmie' and something rustles right at my elbow. It's Jimmie."

Several weeks ago in the important Rice game, Center Tommy Vaughn went down for the first time in his college career. He had been hit on the head.

Shortly after the game they removed him to the college infirmary. Jimmie Parker followed them straight to Vaughn's room, pulled up a chair at his bedside.

Vaughn was delirious. Like a mother her fluttering her wings over a hurt chick, Jimmie Parker sat there for 18 hours. Once, at the height of Vaughn's restless tumbling, Jimmie discovered his pajamas pants had wrapped tightly around his body.

Vainly he tugged at the big man to straighten his clothes. It did'nt work. Jimmie quietly slipped out in the hall, came rustling back with a pair of surgical scissors. He calmly cut the pajamas off his legs.

Jimmie could write a book about the Aggies. But he doesn't say much.

"Did I ever tell you the one about Jim Sterling?" He grins. "Well Jim was a great sophomore end last year you know.

"One day, just before practice, Jim was trimming a toe with a razor blade. His hand slipped and he cut his toe. What you think he did when he saw the blood? He fainted! The same guy who plays one of the roughest ends in the league. But he's no sissy—I'll tell you that!"

Jimmie, who never has had the size to play football but lives it 365 days a year, will tell you the Aggie team is good "because the stuff is there and they play hard for the coaches; the boys are just like brothers, I tell ya."

"And just between you and me, we'll take Fordham on New Year's day. Don't ever worry a minute about it. I know these guys."

Yankee Scout Sees Army as Baseball Aid

St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP).—Johnny Nee, baseball scout for the New York Yankees, predicted today that the selective service act which may upset the lineups of major league teams will prove a blessing in disguise.

"While the draft may take some of the name players," said Nee, "their presence on army camp teams may mean the development of young players who otherwise would never give baseball a second thought."

The veteran scout said a general lack of physical fitness among young men has made baseball talent rather scarce in recent years.

How He Sees It.

"Army life is going to harden these boys and make them anxious to compete in sports," he said. "Every camp will have its baseball teams and if a big league player happens to be on hand to help instruct, the opportunity and incentive for making good will be considerable. Some of these boys ought to develop into good players."

Nee recalled that many a young star emerged from army camps after the world war, and added "don't forget that Dizzy Dean got his start at Fort Sam Houston, Tex."

He said he would visit army camps in his southern territory, and observed: "I'm not taking any chances on missing another Dean who might pop up in one of them."

What Scouts Want.

As a tip to youngsters who would like to make their army camp a stepping stone to the big leagues, Nee said pitchers, catchers, and first basemen "are the fellows we are after most. Right now they're scarce as hen's teeth."

The Yankee scout spends the off season puttering around his garden here and enjoying an occasional round of golf. The Yankees will do their spring training here.

FEDERAL REPORT NOTES INCREASE IN WILD LIFE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 [Special].—For the fourth consecutive year there have been considerable increases of wild life in the refuges established in the United States by the fish and wild life service, the director, Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, reported today.

For the sixth consecutive year general increases were noted in waterfowl populations as a result of the program of restricting hunting and providing refuge areas, the report added.

Three new areas were added to the federal refuge system, during the year, bringing the total to 263.

The 46 game management agents and 19 deputy agents engaged in enforcing laws protecting wild life, singly or in coöperation with state officers and deputy game wardens, obtained evidence in 2,939 cases of game law violations during the year. Prosecuted in state and federal courts, these cases resulted in 2,773 convictions.

ST. LOUIS WINS DEFENSE WORK THRU 'CATALOG'

Compiles Complete Industrial Data.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 22.—Efforts of this Mississippi river metropolis to get its share of defense contracts are based in large part on five fat volumes of industrial data compiled last summer with defense business in mind. Like Cleveland business men, the St. Louisians decided the government likes to deal with folks with statistics at hand. They have landed $200,000,000 in prime contracts, or about twice what they would be entitled to on a basis of population.

The population of the St. Louis area is given as 1,300,000, or about 1 per cent of the 131,400,000 people in the United States, but the prime contracts are 2 per cent of about 10½ billions awarded. On a basis of industrial production in 1937, St. Louis is getting just about what it is entitled to in prime contracts, since its industrial products were valued at 1 billion 200 million, or about 2 per cent of the United States total of 60 billions 700 millions.

Chicago Entitled to 7.7 Per Cent.

Chicago would be entitled to 7.7 per cent of the prime contracts on the basis of industrial production, but it has not received that amount. Latest figures indicate Chicago has received not much more than 4 per cent of the total.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce started its drive for millions last spring with a meeting of 90 industrial and business leaders. Industrialists with experience in world war production advised the gathering that in 1917-'18 the communities which knew what they could produce and in what quantities often landed contracts in competition with other communities whose capacities weren't cataloged. It was therefore decided to gather statistics.

Under a newly appointed "committee on preparedness for national defense" of which Arthur G. Drefs, vice president of a manufacturing company, was chairman, questionnaires were sent to concerns which might be expected to produce war goods in the St. Louis industrial area.

1,071 Companies Coöperate.

The committee and subcommittees prodded the industries until they gave the requested data. In all 1,071 companies coöperated and the information was condensed and published in the report. The summary of each firm included: name and address, officers, person to be contacted, parent company, whether surveyed by the government, total of skilled and unskilled workers, union status, employé training facilities, floor space in use and unused, vacant ground suitable for expansion, normal products manufactured, plant machinery, and equipment.

The five volume report, which is indexed alphabetically by firm name and by-products, then was distributed to 210 government buying officials thruout the nation. It went to district offices of the various defense purchasing agencies—ordnance, quartermaster, signal, engineer, medical, and also to agencies in Washington, D. C.

Lauded by Army Officer.

Among the comments from army and navy men on the report was this from Lieut. Col. J. A. McDonald, procurement planning officer of the Chicago quartermaster depot: "This is the most comprehensive and complete directory of any city that has been received in these headquarters, and you are to be commended for its thoroness. It will be used officially by the procurement service of this depot."

As a second step the committee took from the five volumes the data on machine shops, tool and die shops, sheet metal, iron and steel fabricators, machinery manufacturers, and any other plants which have suitable machinery and equipment. These data were published in a sixth volume and distributed to all aircraft companies. John Ring Jr., director of the chamber of commerce industrial bureau, declared that as a result many contracts have come into the area from aircraft companies. The Beech Aircraft corporation at Wichita, Kas., set up an office in St. Louis to handle placing of orders with companies in the area. A company spokesman explained, "We can read this book like an architect reads a blue print."

Have Instruction Program.

To aid in developing skilled labor a committee of 19 men was formed by the chamber of commerce and these planned a program of instruction thru three technical high schools, a trade school, the aviation school of Jefferson college [Y. M. C. A.], and the engineering school of Washington university. Classes for workers with no previous training and for those who need "refreshers" are under way. Some schools operate 18 hours a day.

The labor supply for highly skilled jobs admittedly is critical. There are still unemployed, however, St. Louis' WPA figure standing at 13,000. In addition there are direct reliefers who, under state law, are supposed to be unemployables.

The $200,000,000 prime contracts of the area are distributed among 87 firms, but do not include the defense business allocated by parent companies to St. Louis subsidiaries, nor does it allow for those parts of contracts reallocated elsewhere by St. Louis parent companies.

There are and will be extensive secondary contracts, Ring said, tho no total has been computed. A reason given for this, as in Cleveland, is diversification of industry. The 1937 industrial census showed 2,484 establishments in the St. Louis area.

Holiday to Cut Steel Output Only Slightly

Cleveland, O., Dec. 22 (AP).—The busy steel industry will reduce its record operating pace little because of the holidays. Most of the plants will close only on Christmas day. A few without defense orders will close Tuesday for the rest of the week for inventory and machine repairs.

Incoming orders show no signs of slackening and are running at the rate of 140 per cent of production, the magazine Steel said today. Accordingly backlogs are increasing and deliveries falling behind. Orders are especially jammed where alloy steel is involved.

Order Backlog Sets Record.

Describing activity at a large company where alloy steel is a major product, the review said:

"On a typical day last week orders were received at the rate of 134½ per cent of production. Sales at the middle of December were 10 per cent ahead of mid-November, while last week the total backlog of orders reached the highest tonnage in the company's history."

Sheet and strip makers welcome a current decline in buying from automotive firms, allowing the producers to supply other urgent needs.

Ingot Production Dips.

Ingot production dipped a half point to 95 per cent of capacity last week, with Pittsburgh dropping one point to 95 per cent, Chicago one-half to 97½, and Youngstown one to 91. New England gained 10 to 100.

Unchanged were eastern Pennsylvania at 95, Wheeling 98½, Cleveland 86½, Buffalo 93, Birmingham 100, Cincinnati 87, St. Louis 87½, and Detroit 90.

The magazine's price composites were unchanged for finished steel at $56.60 and scrap at $21.37, but four cents higher at $38.32 for iron and steel.

STEEL COMPANY STARTS $2,000,000 EXPANSION PLAN

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Allegheny Ludlum Steel corporation announced tonight a $2,000,000 expansion program to increase its alloy steel capacity by 50,000 tons a year. Work is already under way.

The expansion will give the corporation increased electric furnace melting capacity and a corresponding increase in finishing facilities. Each of the corporation's plants or subsidiaries will be affected. They are at Brackenridge and West Leechburg, Pa.; Watervliet, Dunkirk, and Buffalo, N. Y.; Wallingford, Conn., and Detroit.

AUTO TAXES RISE AGAIN TO NEW ALLTIME PEAK

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The American petroleum industries committee estimated today that motor vehicle taxes accruing to federal, state, and local governments increased $140,000,000 in 1940 to an alltime high of approximately $1,850,000,000.

Federal and state gasoline taxes, the committee said, were estimated at $1,116,000,000; registered fees, $450,000,000; sales and excise taxes $200,000,000, and local levies the balance.

The 1941 automotive tax bill, the statement said, was expected to reach the 2 billion dollar mark.

DEFENSE PLANT WORKERS PUT ON 48 HOUR WEEK

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Construction workers on a new $15,000,000 defense project here will be placed on a 48 hour work week basis with allowance for overtime effective tomorrow, J. H. Grady, resident construction engineer, said tonight.

Grady said the decision to increase the work week was reached Saturday at a conference of officials of the war department and E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., which is building the ammonia plant.

"Altho the men will work 48 hours [eight more than the maximum prescribed by the wage hour law] they will be paid at the rate of 52 hours, or time and one-half for overtime," Grady explained.

STEVENS HOTEL TO PAY MORE TO BONDHOLDERS

Report Gain in 1940 Net Earnings.

The Stevens hotel, giant creation of the 1920s which bogged down in the financial mire of the depression and has been trying to fight its way out ever since, mailed some good news to its bondholders yesterday.

Joseph P. Binns reports business gains.

Reporting an increase in income for 1940, the hotel announced it would pay interest of 4 per cent, and possibly 5 per cent, to the 3,700 holders of its $6,000,000 of bonds. The payment will be made March 1, and the exact rate will be determined at the close of the year's business. Payments were 2.1 per cent last year, 2 per cent in 1938, and 0.9 per cent in 1937. Interest is payable only if earned.

Reports Management's Efforts.

Joseph P. Binns, who became manager of the hotel in 1939, announced the increase in the interest payment and, in the letter sent to the bondholders in behalf of the board of directors, described the management's efforts to increase business and reduce expenses.

The hotel, Binns said, spent $325,000 from income on repairs, maintenance, and capital investments this year, and still had more earnings left to pass on to bondholders in interest payments than in 1939. Binns did not issue an estimate of the 1940 income. In 1939 the hotel's income, before depreciation and before interest on the $6,000,000 of income bonds, was $307,735. After providing for the depreciation and interest, the company had a net loss of $128,411 last year.

Occupancy Increases.

Occupancy increased 6 per cent this year, Binns said, to an average of about 50 per cent, against 44 per cent in 1939.

"Increases in gross business have been brought about by more personal contacts, a sincere attempt by the management and the staff to get the customer's point of view, renovation and redecoration of 1,000 rooms and most of the public space, improved general business conditions, and Chicago's increasing importance as a convention center," Binns said.

"The hotel's banquet business, largest in 11 years, accounted for part of the increase. We conducted an intensified promotional and sales program stressing the hotel's facilities, which includes the world's largest ballroom. We controled expenses carefully. Modernization of the laundry alone saved $25,000."

Original Cost 28 Millions.

The Stevens, which with 3,000 rooms is so large that one person could live in it eight years and not sleep in the same room twice, was completed in 1927 at a cost of $28,000,000. The owner is Stevens Hotel corporation, which under a bankruptcy proceeding begun in 1934 emerged as the successor to Stevens Hotel company.

The founder was Ernest J. Stevens, who in 1933 was tried on an embezzlement charge involving transfer to the hotel treasury of $1,308,463 of funds of the Illinois Life Insurance company, of which he was vice president. A jury found Stevens guilty, but the Illinois Supreme court freed him in 1934, ruling that the transfer was legal.

RIO DE JANEIRO.

I own some State of Rio de Janeiro 6½s of '59. I would like to know the present situation of the debt service on the bonds and the value of the coupons.—J. W. W.

Answer: Interest and sinking fund payments on the $5,344,000 of 6½ per cent dollar bonds of the State of Rio de Janeiro [Brazil], maturing in 1959, went into default in 1931. Interest coupons dated from July 1, 1932 thru Jan. 1, 1934, have never been paid.

Payments were resumed on a reduced scale in 1934 as follows: 17½ per cent of the face value of July 1, 1934, and Jan. 1, 1935 coupons; 20 per cent, July 1, 1935, and Jan. 1, 1936; 22½ per cent, July 1, 1936, and Jan. 1, 1937, and 32½ per cent, July 1, 1937. Subsequent payments were suspended by the Brazilian government's moratorium of November, 1937.

Under the new debt service plan announced last March, holders of these bonds will be offered 13 per cent of the 1938 coupons; 13⅜ per cent of the 1939; 13.975 per cent of the 1940, and 16¼ per cent of 1941.

Answering Your Questions About National Defense . . .

MOST significant of all developments overhanging our national economy are Government expenditures for defense. It is important for everyone in business to know just how these expenditures will affect our industrial and business prosperity. What will additional taxation do to business and to the man in the street? What are the prospects for prices, inflation, higher wages, corporation earnings, private and public financing?

THE NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL AND BUSINESS REVIEW AND FORECAST—published with the issue of January 2nd, 1941—will provide a comprehensive review and expert analysis and interpretation of the national defense problem in all its phases as they affect business. It will be a timely and important issue which executives all over the country will look for because they trust THE TIMES to answer their questions with authority.

An audience of 500,000, including key executives throughout the nation . . . an unusual opportunity for effective advertising-to-business.

Full information upon request.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A Danish kitchen as Christmas approaches. The pig's head is to be made into headcheese, or sylte. Mrs. N. M. Madsen (left) is being helped (reading clockwise) by Edgar Madsen, Doris Rosendal, Marion Thorup, Mrs. Smidt Christiansen, Harry Madsen, Joan Christiansen, and Alice Thorup.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Greeks pledge obedience to their elders, as demonstrated by pupils of Socrates school, 742 South Ada street.
